McGlothlin Fund Application guidelines

These guidelines are to be used in conjunction with the McGlothlin Fund Application form which is available on the Radford University International Education Center (IEC) website.

The McGlothlin Fund is available to faculty and to campus organizations seeking support for events and projects which promote international education.

There are a few guidelines:

1. Applications can be made at any time in the year. However, please be advised that the approval process can take up to two months.

2. In order for the McGlothlin Fund Guardian and the RU Foundation to approve an application it must detail precisely how the funds would be spent.

3. Preference will be given to applications which are judged by the McGlothlin Fund Guardian, in consultation with others possessing pertinent knowledge, to be of most benefit to the overall RU community.

4. All awardees are required to provide feedback on the impact and benefit of the funding so that the McGlothlin Fund Guardian can report back to the donors.

5. In order to promote as many events and projects as possible, the IEC will not give more $4000 from the McGlothlin Fund to support any individual project or event.

6. If the IEC and the Scholar Citizen Initiative combine to give funds to a single project or event, the total amount given can not exceed $6000.
