1. “This study looks at the association between how college students view themselves and feelings of distress and hostility. We are going to measure this by having you complete several questionnaires.

3. “At this time, please read the Consent form on the top of the packet. One of these forms is for you to keep. If you decide not to participate please, keep one copy of the consent form for your records, and bring your packet to me. If you decide to participate, please complete the questionnaires in your packet in the order in which they appear, please do not skip ahead.

4. “You have now completed this study. We want to thank you for being so generous with your time today. Before you leave please carefully read over the Debriefing Form, which you will find in your Packet. This form is for you to keep and has important contact information, should at any time after you leave here feel ill or distressed, or have any questions regarding your participation.

This form provides a more detailed account of the hypotheses and goals of the present study. Specifically, in this study we tested that hypothesis that people who view themselves as masculine would be more like report being more hostile and aggress and that people fo view themselves as feminine would report feeling more distressed.

Again, we thank you for your participation in this study. If you know of any friends or acquaintances that are eligible to participate in this study, we request that you not discuss it with them until after they have had the opportunity to participate. Prior knowledge of questions asked during the study can invalidate the results. We greatly appreciate your cooperation.”

10. Upon completing all of the questionnaires, be sure the participants have read and kept the debriefing form and has a copy of the consent form. Check all packets for all questionnaires before they go. Make sure they have not missed any items.
- Thank participants for coming and ask if they have any questions or concerns about their participation.
- Let us know if participants are having any problems.
- Keep all files in a safe place. Store the consent forms and the data in separate folders. Give the consent forms to Dr. Aspelmeier during the next class session.
 - Be sure to record anything out of the ordinary that occurs during the study session. Include the participant number. This information can be recorded on the back of the demographic form of the relevant participant(s), but also be sure to inform us of any problems immediately, or if you have questions, we may need to make changes as we go.
- Examples :
