What can Women's Studies do for you?

"This is a minor for all people ... I believe that I have a better understanding of not only women, but also humanity. I know that I have become a better person through Women's Studies."

Jennifer Brown

"Being in the women's studies program was a fantastic experience for me. The courses were much more inclusive of different authors and ideas than most of my previous courses. The studies ranged from personal experiences of racism and sexism to international women's issues."

Kristen Sims Harrod

"My Women's Studies minor helped me get my job! I work in a team of ALL women, and when I was interviewed, the Principal asked me how I would feel about working with a team of women. I told her all about being a male pursuing a Women's Studies minor, and it showed her that I was not only willing to work with an all female staff, I was also certainly able to!!"

MINOR IN WOMEN'S STUDIES

The Minor in Women's Studies offers students a range of courses forming a program with an interdisciplinary emphasis on women, the contributions they have made to society, and the effects of gender inequality. The program provides opportunities to become acquainted with the scholarship that has developed during the last 40 years focusing on both the specifics of women's lives and gender as a category of analysis. Students will also have the opportunity to carry out an internship in a setting or agency that addresses issues related to women and gender.

Women's Studies hosts, sponsors, and co-sponsors a variety of intriguing events that center on scholarship about women. These events include faculty lectures, visiting scholar presentations, exhibits, performances, and the annual Gender Studies Conference.

The Women's Studies Minor is administered by the Director of Women's Studies in concert with the Women's Studies Committee. Programs of study and internship projects must be approved by the Director.

The Women's Studies Minor requires 15 hours of coursework.

COURSE OFFERINGS

Required: 3 credit hours

WMST 101. Women in the World.

An introduction to the interdisciplinary field of Women's Studies through global and multicultural perspectives. It provides an overview of women through time. The course attends to differences of gender, race, class, and sexuality; it establishes a foundation for further coursework in the Women's Studies minor.

Electives: 12 credit hours

Selected from the following courses:

COMM 457. Diversity in Communication.
CRJU 365. Diversity in the Criminal Justice System.
ENGL 453. The Female Literary Tradition.
HIST 306. History of Women.
