Faculty Search Process
Faculty are a major resource and a long-term investment for Radford University. In order for searches to begin earlier and for new faculty to start in Fall 2023, decisions have been made beginning in Fall 2022. With requests from the department and dean prioritizing the requests, Provost then analyzes requests across all colleges and makes decision to invest based on growth and demand.

Complete College America Conference
2022 Annual Conference: BREAKTHROUGH will be held in Atlanta, GA on October 24-25, 2022. A faculty development opportunity to attend major conference on supporting student success. New ideas, new practices and break barriers to change. Eight academic leaders will be attending from Radford University.

Student Retention – Highlander Success Center
A presentation from Dr. Nicole Hendrix will be presented in Student Success committee meeting. The presentation focuses on retention, progression, and graduation. The HSC consolidates units across the institution on these goals. Professional advising staff are the primary unit for connection and outreach to students.

Mountains, Rivers and Roads - Understanding Appalachia October 21-23, 2022 Voices exploring the science, culture art and history of Appalachia.
The Honors College is hosting a symposium dedicated to finding connections and common ground, sharing interests and experiences relating to Appalachia from across Radford and beyond. The event will find and foster connections, sharing interests and experiences relating to Appalachia from all corners and vantages.

Elevate Research Program
Associate Provost Jeanne Mekolichick presented on the Elevate Research Program to increase student access to and participation in undergraduate research, scholarship and creative inquiry (URSCI) in order to close equity gaps and raise overall retention, progression and graduation rates. Support faculty embedding URSCI and career readiness skills into first- and second-year courses. Diversify classroom leadership. Senior History major Demiah Smith discussed how being a student mentor in this program enhanced her experience at Radford University. She enjoyed helping other students.

Goals for 2022-2023
1. Successful SACS Reaffirmation
   Dr. Tim Channell, Assistant Provost for Budgets and Academic Operations, introduced Dr. Jessica Stowell, the new Director of Institutional Effectiveness. Both updated on the progress of our SACSCOC reaffirmation. The reaffirmation compliance focus report was sent on September 8, 2022. This report addressed 80 standards and sub-standards with narratives and supporting evidence and documents.
The timeline for the remainder of the reaffirmation cycle:

- November 1-4, 2022: Offsite Review
- February 2023: Submit reply to focus report and final QEP proposal
- March 27-30, 2023: Onsite Visit
- August 2023: Submit Onsite Response Report
- December 2023: SACSCOC Board of Trustees Review

2. Faculty workload optimization
   Go from fixed 4-4 classroom instructional load to flexible assignments that best use faculty talents to support student recruitment, retention, and graduation. Faculty strengths and talents are not all in the classroom. Some are better teachers, other better at engaging students in other ways, such as field trips, involvement in research, creating and supporting internships, or developing new teaching modalities. Plans to pilot in spring 2023; full implementation in fall 2023. Dr. Jane Machin, Associate Professor, Department of Marketing, presented an example of a reassigned time project to improve student success, the Davis First-Year Experience. Retention of all students is a strategic priority and is especially important for first-time students. New freshmen retention has been a challenge for the University and the Davis College of Business and Economics (DCOBE). When business students interact with their major faculty, retention improves.
   The Davis College First Year Faculty Committee. The committee will focus on Academic Belonging, intentional first year academic coordination and Community Belonging, intentionally building Davis College Highlander community. The goal is to increase fall-to-fall new freshman student retention in DCOBE from 66% to 71%.

3. Increase Average Class Size
   Average size of lecture format classes at Radford University is 19.5. Increasing class size to 24 would increase in course section capacities, have fewer under-enrolled sections, and use less adjunct faculty.

4. Increase in externally funded activities
   More faculty, students, and community members to be involved in externally funded activities. In FY22 our Principal Investigators or co-Principal Investigators submitted 54 proposals, of which 41 were funded. About 65 undergraduate and graduate students were paid on grants, and about 10 community members participated. In FY22 new proposals totaled $33m; $8m new awards were received. The goal is have these numbers increase.

Faculty Senate Report
Dr. Kurt Gingrich, Faculty Senate President discussed the achievements of the Faculty Senate in 2021-2022 and its goals for 2022-2023.

ADJOURNMENT
With no further business to come before the Committee, Dr. Fowlkes adjourned the meeting at 2:52 p. m.

Respectfully submitted,
