THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, it is recommended that the Academic Excellence and Research Committee approve the faculty tenure recommendations listed above to be presented to the full Board of Visitors at its next meeting, to become effective the beginning of the 2019-2020 academic year.
RADFORD UNIVERSITY
ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE AND RESEARCH COMMITTEE
RESOLUTION TO AMEND THE
TEACHING AND RESEARCH FACULTY HANDBOOK

May 9, 2019

WHEREAS, all proposed changes to the Teaching and Research Faculty Handbook must be managed in accord with §5.0 of that handbook; and

WHEREAS, the authority to amend or revise the Faculty Handbook lies with the Board of Visitors. However, proposals for revising the Handbook may be initiated by faculty, administrators, the President, or members of the Board of Visitors. Revisions fall into two categories: (1) those required to ensure that the University is in compliance with state policies and mandates, and (2) those within the purview of the decision-making processes within the University; and

WHEREAS, revisions required to ensure that the University is in compliance with state policies and mandates, and that do not require a decision by University personnel, will be effected through an administrative update, with faculty being informed of the change and the reasons for it; and

WHEREAS, revisions within the purview of the decision-making processes in the University Internal Governance system will be considered by the appropriate committees as defined by the Internal Governance system. Proposals for changes will be made in the form of text intended to replace a portion of the Teaching and Research Faculty Handbook, noting new language and striking out the old language; and

WHEREAS, it will be the Faculty Senate’s responsibility to ensure that the general faculty is provided time and opportunity to review the proposed change so faculty can communicate with their senators prior to any action by the Faculty Senate; and

WHEREAS, the Faculty Senate’s recommendations on proposed revisions to the Teaching and Research Faculty Handbook will be forwarded to and approved by the President. The Provost will forward the Faculty Senate’s recommendations to the Academic Excellence and Research Committee who will in turn make recommendations to the full Board of Visitors;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Academic Excellence and Research Committee of the Radford University Board of Visitors hereby approves in accordance with §5.0 of the Teaching and Research Faculty Handbook, Section 1.8.4, Composition of Faculty Appeals Committees and Section 1.9.5, Composition of Faculty Grievance Committee of the Teaching and Research Faculty Handbook to hereby amend to revise the language regarding the composition of the two committees. Said sections are to now read as follows (deletions are strikethrough and additions are in red):

1.8.4 Composition of Faculty Appeals Committees

The Faculty Appeals Committee shall consist of ten elected tenured faculty members. Representation is as follows: three representatives elected from the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences, one from the College of Business and Economics, one from the College of Education and Human Development, one from the College of Visual and Performing Arts, two from the College of Science and Technology, and one from the Waldron College of Health and Human Services. One faculty member will be elected at-large by the University faculty. When colleges have multiple representatives, the representatives must come from different departments. Elections must take place prior to the end of the spring semester for the following academic year according to the Academic Governance document terms of service on committees. Ten representatives will be divided among the undergraduate colleges proportionate to the number of full-time faculty within each college, to be calculated every four years by the University Internal Governance Review Committee. Colleges must establish procedures to address allocation changes in representation.

One alternate member shall be elected to the committee from each college. Colleges should establish procedures to ensure that the alternate is not from the same department as the elected member who may temporarily be replaced. Alternates should be those faculty who received the second highest number of votes and are members of a Department other than that in which the committee member elected serves. One alternate member shall be elected for the at-large faculty representative. This shall be the faculty who received the second highest number of votes in the at-large election and who is a member of a department other than that in which the elected at-large member serves.

No member may be elected to serve concurrently as principal or alternative on both the Faculty Appeals Committee and the Faculty Grievance Committee. Elected members and alternates will serve three-year terms. Transfer in membership will occur at the first meeting of the fall semester. The terms should be staggered so that each year one-third of the members are elected. Committee Members may serve more than one term. At the beginning of the fall term of each academic year, the President of the Faculty Senate shall designate the convener of the Faculty Appeals Committee from among the elected members of that committee. The Faculty Appeals Committee shall elect its own chair.

No committee member shall participate in any deliberations when the appellant is a member of her or his department. Nor may a committee member serve as an appellant’s advocate in any matter brought before the committee. In addition, a committee member may excuse himself or herself or may be excused by the Chair of the committee from participation in proceedings any time there is a conflict of interest, a potential conflict of interest or even the appearance of a conflict of interest. In such cases, the member will be temporarily replaced by the alternate from her or his college. In the event there is disagreement between a committee member and the committee Chair as to whether or not the committee member should be so excused, the matter will be resolved by vote of the committee.

One alternate committee member shall be elected to the committee from each college. Colleges must establish procedures to ensure that the alternate is not from the same department as the elected member who is temporarily replaced. Additionally, alternates should be those faculty who received the next highest number of votes.

1.9.5 Composition of Faculty Grievance Committee

The Faculty Grievance Committee shall consist of ten elected tenured faculty members. Representation is as follows: three representatives elected from the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences, one from the College of Business and Economics, one from the College of Education and Human Development, one from the College of Visual and Performing Arts, two from the College of Science and Technology, and one from the Waldron College of Health and Human Services. One faculty member will be elected at-large by the University faculty.

When colleges have multiple representatives, the representatives must come from different departments. Elections must take place prior to the end of the spring semester for the following academic year according to the Academic Governance document terms of service on committees. Ten representatives will be divided among the undergraduate colleges proportionate to the number of full-time faculty within each college, to be calculated every four years by the University Internal Governance Review Committee. Colleges must establish procedures to address allocation changes in representation.

No member may be elected to serve concurrently on both the Faculty Appeals Committee and the Faculty Grievance Committee.

No member may be elected to serve concurrently as principal or alternative on both the Faculty Appeals Committee and the Faculty Grievance Committee. Committee members and alternates will serve three year terms. Transfer in membership will occur at the first meeting of the fall semester. The committee may meet at any time during the calendar year, not just the academic year. The terms should be staggered so that each year one-third of the representatives are elected. Committee members may serve more than one term. The President of Faculty Senate shall convene the first meeting of the committee no later than the fourth week of the fall semester. The Grievance Committee shall elect its own chair.

No committee member shall participate in any deliberations when the grievant is a member of her or his department. Nor may a committee member serve as an appellants grievant’s advocate in any matter brought before the committee on which that member is actively serving. In addition, a committee member may excuse himself or herself or may be excused by the Chair of the committee from participation in proceedings any time there is a conflict of interest, a potential conflict of interest or even the appearance of a conflict of interest. In such cases, the committee member will be temporarily replaced by the alternate from his or her or his college. In the event there is disagreement between a committee member and the committee Chair as to whether or not the committee member should be so excused, the matter will be resolved by vote of the committee.

Elected members and alternates will serve three-year terms. The terms should be staggered so that each year one-third of the members are elected. Members may serve more than one term. One alternate member-representative shall be elected to the committee from each college. Colleges should establish procedures to ensure that the alternate is not from the same department as the elected member who may temporarily be replaced. Alternates should be those faculty who received the second highest number of votes and are members of a department other than that in which the committee member elected serves. One alternate member shall be elected for the at-large faculty representative. This shall be the faculty who received the second highest number of votes in the at-large election and who is a member of a department other than that in which the elected at-large member serves.

At the beginning of the Fall term of each academic year, the President of the Faculty Senate shall designate the convener of the Faculty Grievance Committee from among the elected members of that committee. The Faculty Grievance Committee shall elect its own chair.
The following Teaching and Research faculty members have been recommended for promotion by their respective Department Promotion Committees, Department Chair, and College Dean and approved by the Provost and President.

RADFORD UNIVERSITY BOARD OF VISITORS
RESOLUTION

Delegation of Authority to Ensure Compliance with Textbook Sales’ Regulations

September 16, 2011

WHEREAS, Section 133 of the Federal Higher Education Opportunity Act requires that institutions of higher education receiving federal financial assistance incorporate into their student notification process important textbook and supplemental material disclosures; and

WHEREAS, Section § 23-4.3:1.B of the Code of Virginia requires governing boards to implement procedures relevant to providing textbook data in a central location and in a standard format; and

WHEREAS, Section § 23-4.3:1.C of the Code of Virginia requiring governing boards to implement policies, procedures and guidelines that encourage efforts to minimize the cost of textbooks for students at Virginia’s public colleges and universities while maintaining the quality of education and academic freedom;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Board of Visitors of Radford University hereby authorizes and directs the President to execute all necessary documents to ensure compliance with Federal and State textbook sales regulations.
1. PURPOSE

The Textbook Sales Policy for Radford University (University) sets forth requirements for textbook sales in order to comply with federal and state regulations and to encourage efforts to minimize the cost of textbooks to students while maintaining academic freedom and the quality of education.

2. APPLICABILITY

The Textbook Sales Policy applies to all University employees involved in the textbook adoption process including representatives of the University’s bookstore vendor.

3. DEFINITIONS

Bundled Package: One or more college textbooks or other supplemental materials that may be packaged together to be sold as course materials for one price.

Integrated textbook: A college textbook that is combined with materials developed by a third party and, by contractual agreement, publishers may not offer the textbook and materials separately; or materials that are combined with the content of the textbook to such an extent that the separation of the textbook from the materials would render the textbook unusable for its intended purpose.

Supplemental material: Educational material developed to accompany a textbook such as printed materials, computer disks, website access or electronically distributed materials that are not being used as a component of an integrated textbook.

4. POLICY

A. No Radford University employee will demand or receive any payment, loan, subscription, advance, deposit of money, services or anything, present or promised, as an inducement for requiring students to purchase a specific textbook required for coursework or instruction; with the exception that the employee may receive (i) sample copies, instructor’s copies, or instructional material; and (ii) royalties or other compensation from sales of textbooks that include such instructor’s own writing or work.
B. The University will make provisions for the availability of required textbooks to students otherwise unable to afford the cost.

C. The University will ensure that no funds provided for financial aid from University Bookstore revenues are included in the calculation for state appropriations for financial aid.

5. PROCEDURES

A. University Bookstore

1. The University Bookstore will develop a process to work collaboratively with the campus community for the adoption of textbooks and supplemental materials which ensure timeliness and availability.

2. Centralized listings of textbooks and supplemental materials required or assigned for particular courses will be available on the University Bookstore website after the relevant faculty member, instructor or academic department notifies the University Bookstore. For each particular course, the University Bookstore will post the International Standard Book Number (ISBN) along with other relevant information.

3. The University Bookstore will be encouraged to disseminate to students information regarding:
   a. available institutional programs for renting textbooks and purchasing used textbooks;
   b. available institutional guaranteed textbook buyback programs;
   c. available institutional alternative content delivery programs; and
   d. other available institutional cost-savings strategies.

B. Faculty/Instructor/Academic Department

1. Faculty members, instructors and academic departments will provide the University Bookstore with textbook and supplemental materials information for a particular course with sufficient lead time to allow for the confirmation of availability of such textbooks and supplemental materials and where possible, maximize the availability of used textbooks.

2. Faculty members, instructors and academic departments will confirm the intent to use all items ordered before the adoption is finalized. If the faculty member does not intend to use each item included in a bundled package, he or she will notify the University Bookstore and the University Bookstore will order the individualized items when their procurement is cost effective for both the institution and the student where the Publisher makes such items available.

3. Faculty members will acknowledge the University Bookstore’s quoted retail price of textbooks selected for each course.

4. Faculty members are encouraged to limit their use of new edition textbooks when previous editions do not significantly differ in a substantive way as determined by the appropriate faculty member.

6. EXCLUSIONS

None
7. APPENDICES

8. REFERENCES

Code of Virginia § 23.1-1308, “Governing board procedures; textbook sales and bookstores.”

9. INTERPRETATION

The authority to interpret this policy rests with the President of the University and is generally delegated to the Chief Financial Officer & Vice President for Finance and Administration.

10. APPROVAL AND REVISIONS

The President of the University and the President’s Cabinet have approval authority over this policy and all subsequent revisions.

As deemed necessary, revisions to the Textbook Sales Policy must be approved by the Vice President for Finance and Administration and the President’s Cabinet.

The Board of Visitors authorized the President to execute all necessary documents to ensure compliance with federal and state textbook sales regulations on September 16, 2011.

Revisions to the Textbook Sales Policy were approved by the President’s Cabinet, and the president signed the policy, on July 12, 2012.

Effective October 24, 2017, the Textbook Sales Policy was reviewed by the oversight department and the Office of Policy Compliance. Minor revisions were made and the policy was updated to the current University policy template. No substantive changes were made that would alter the scope or application of the policy.

For general information concerning University policies, contact the Office of Policy Compliance – (540) 831-5794. For questions or guidance on a specific policy, contact the Oversight Department referenced in the policy.
I. Prologue and Purpose
This document provides guidance to faculty in achieving the following outcomes through the utilization of Open Educational Resources (OER) and no-cost or low-cost (NoLo) materials at Radford University:

1. Improving student success through increased access and affordability of course materials; and
2. Improving teaching efficiency and effectiveness through the ability to focus, analyze, augment, and evolve course materials directly aligned to course learning outcomes.

These guidelines do not require the use of OER or NoLo materials in any course. The purpose of the guidelines is to support faculty in their voluntary participation with OER and NoLo to achieve both stated outcomes.

II. Definitions

Open Educational Resources (OER) are publicly available teaching, learning, and research resources that reside in the public domain or have been released under an intellectual property license that permits their free use and re-purposing by others, most often Creative Commons. Open educational resources include full courses, course materials, modules, textbooks, streaming videos, tests, software, and any other tools, materials, or techniques used to support access to knowledge (Hewlett Foundation, 2019).

OER Course is a designation in the Radford University course catalog that signifies that all required textbooks or other instructional content resources for a given course use a Creative Commons license or reside in the public domain. Faculty may use non-OER materials in these courses, such as journal articles or websites, provided they are available at no cost to students via the Radford University library or the Internet. Faculty teaching OER Courses should strive to eliminate out-of-pocket costs for students.

NoLo Course is a designation in the Radford University course catalog that signifies that all required textbooks or other instructional content resources for a given course cost students no more than $40—i.e., they are no-cost or low-cost. The $40 maximum includes all required educational resources such as textbooks, workbooks, online homework platforms, access codes, First Day or Inclusive Access subscriptions, or other publisher-provided materials. The $40 maximum also includes hardware and software such as lab manuals, calculators, or clickers which are required by the instructor for the course. This figure does not include library or technology resources (e.g. journal articles or software) that are already included in the standard tuition and fees paid by all students. It also does not include art supplies, notebooks and binders, lab supplies, or other general-purpose student supplies.
III. OER Statement
Faculty at Radford University shall make use of OER materials in accordance with the provisions of the Intellectual Property policy; the Creative Commons licensing standards; the Digital Millennium Copyright Act of 1998; applicable state and federal copyright laws; accepted best practices of the OER community, including a succinct and well-accepted definition of OER; and college policies and academic standards.

Faculty who incorporate OER materials into their courses or create, adapt, or share OER shall be in compliance with policies governing the use of course materials under the Policies and Procedures on Intellectual Property Transfer and the Textbook Sales Policy. More information about these policies can be found at the Radford University policies and procedures webpage.

Radford University will provide training, support, and encourage recognition of OER use, adaptation, and creation as a meaningful scholarly and professional endeavor.

OER Courses will be labeled as such in the institution's course registration system. NoLo Courses will be labeled as such in the institution's course registration system. If a course meets the requirements for both NoLo and OER designations, both designations will be listed in the course registration system.

For all OER Courses, the bookstore shall display clearly to students that OER materials are available for free online, and to the extent possible, provide information on how to access the free online version of the materials.

For all NoLo Courses, the $40 cutoff will be applied to the lowest possible total for all required materials, which may include used or old textbook editions as well as textbook rentals.

IV. Licensing OER and Legal Context
The institution’s intellectual property (IP) and copyright policy, titled Policies and Procedures on Intellectual Property Transfer, governs rights and requirements for works created during the course of employment, including ownership, open licensing, and public release.

Faculty or staff who create original content that is incorporated into an OER Course or create OER of other types or formats shall place a Creative Commons license on the content or release it to the public domain. Faculty are encouraged to use the least restrictive license possible, the Creative Commons Attribution License (CC-BY), which allows users to reuse content freely, provided they give attribution to the original author. Faculty are discouraged from using the Creative Commons No Derivatives (ND) license, as it is not considered an OER license.

Faculty should consult the Creative Commons website for more information on choosing a license and compatibility between license types. It is the faculty member’s responsibility to ensure that their content, both original and adapted, complies with the requirements of each relevant Creative Commons license. Best practices for incorporation of third party works (permission, fair use, etc.) must be followed as is required by U.S. Copyright law. Faculty should always endeavor to be stewards of the commons, providing attribution even when not legally mandated (e.g., for public domain images) and releasing material to as wide an audience as possible.
V. OER Procedures and Responsibilities

The Provost, or a person or committee designated by the Provost, shall be responsible for developing and maintaining these guidelines and ensuring compliance with applicable regulations, policies, and procedures of the institution, and the laws and regulations of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

Administration and management efforts shall include advocating for the creation and adaptation of OER to be recognized as a meaningful scholarly and professional endeavor.

Faculty, staff, and students using, adapting, and creating OER are responsible for following institutional policy and recognized best practices regarding incorporating student created works into faculty or collaboratively authored OER or an OER Course.

Employees of the institution are responsible for following relevant laws and policies regarding accessibility of learning materials for persons with disabilities. Radford University will provide guidance and agreed upon levels of support to achieve accessibility requirements.

As subject matter experts, faculty interested in using OER are responsible for creating, adapting, and selecting OER materials that align to course learning outcomes.

Faculty or departments who seek to designate a course as an OER Course are required to attest that any required textbook or other required resources in the course are openly licensed via Creative Commons or public domain and can be accessed freely by students. Faculty are encouraged to eliminate all costs to students in OER Courses by removing paid software, access codes, or other resources that are required to complete the course.

Faculty are encouraged to employ the following permissions for the adoption, adaptation, and creation of OER (Wiley, n.d.):

1. Retain - the right to make, own, and control copies of the content (e.g., download, duplicate, store, and manage)
2. Reuse - the right to use the content in a wide range of ways (e.g., in a class, in a study group, on a website, in a video)
3. Revise - the right to adapt, adjust, modify, or alter the content itself (e.g., translate the content into another language)
4. Remix - the right to combine the original or revised content with other material to create something new (e.g., incorporate the content into a mashup)
5. Redistribute - the right to share copies of the original content, your revisions, or your remixes with others (e.g., give a copy of the content to a friend)

It is the faculty member’s responsibility to ensure that content incorporated into OER or OER Courses is eligible for and meets the standards for a Creative Commons license and is properly attributed. Faculty may consult with a person or committee designated by the Provost to determine eligibility and correctly note attributions.
VI. OER Training and Professional Development
The institution designates librarians and other campus OER leaders to provide training on how to locate OER; intellectual property, copyright, and open licenses; adopting and adapting OER; and best practices for sharing and enabling discovery of OER.

In order to design or teach an OER Course the faculty or staff member must have successfully completed the OER training program. As a temporary exception, faculty who adopted OER prior to the enactment of these guidelines are not required, but are highly encouraged, to complete the OER training program. Faculty, staff, and students wishing to adapt, create and share OER through institutional channels are encouraged to take similar training. Cross institutional collaboration is encouraged.

VII. OER Technical Format, Archiving, and Discovery
Faculty are encouraged to store OER in a stable, publicly accessible location and to utilize naming and/or metadata conventions that enable discovery within and beyond Virginia. Commonly used platforms include OER Commons, MERLOT, the Open Textbook Library, and Pressbooks. Faculty are encouraged to share their materials on the Virtual Library of Virginia (VIVA) OER Commons microsite. When sharing on these platforms, faculty are encouraged to use electronic formats that permit users to freely access, edit, and share the materials. Cross institutional collaboration is encouraged in defining, establishing, and achieving best practices regarding technical formats, institutional data ownership, migration of content, enabling public access and reuse, archival standards, and enabling discovery.

VIII. OER Quality Assurance
As subject matter experts, faculty are responsible for creating, adapting, or selecting OERs that align to the course learning outcomes as reflected on the official course syllabus. OERs shall be subject to the same quality assurance as traditional materials.

IX. No-Cost and Low-Cost Commercially Published Materials
When OER adaptation or creation is not feasible in a course, faculty are encouraged to explore the use of no-cost and low-cost commercially published materials. Radford University has adopted a $40 maximum for NoLo designated courses. These materials may be licensed using traditional copyright or using open licenses (Creative Commons or Public Domain).

Discussion
Supporting Our Student Population

“The Academic Excellence and Research Subgroup recognizes that Radford University’s stature is not based on rigor and recognition alone. It is based on increasing access to rigorous, relevant programs by meeting students where they are and providing the support they need. Students — traditional, nontraditional and from all backgrounds — are Radford University’s reason for existence.”

Employment should be part of a student’s ongoing professional and educational development.
Students succeed when they are actively engaged in their learning (Lynch-Holmes, Coley, and Coley) which can come from engagement with peers (Tinto), self-selected time exploring concepts (Gureckis and Markant), and the self-efficacy (Becker and Gable) that they develop when they learn to manage their time and study habits.
Contributing to a Culture of Success

• Engage academically with their peers
• Increase their knowledge of particular subjects or concepts
• Improve their study habits
• Build their studying, time management or communication skills
• Work collaboratively to further their learning
