Item:
Board of Visitors approval of Radford University’s 2019 Six-Year Plan as required by § 23.1-306.

Background:
In response to the requirements outlined in § 23.1-306 of the Code of Virginia, attached is a copy of Radford University’s 2019 Six-Year Plan submitted to the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia (SCHEV) by the stated deadline of July 1, 2019.

As a mandate established through the “Preparing for the Top Jobs of the 21st Century: The Virginia Higher Education Act of 2011” (TJ21) legislation, governing boards of each public institution of higher education shall develop and adopt biennially and amend or affirm annually a six-year plan for their institution. This requires the plans to be submitted to the State Council for Higher Education of Virginia by July 1 of each odd-numbered year and requires any amendments or affirmations to existing plans to be submitted by July 1 of each even-numbered year.

The 2019 Six Year Plan submission marks the fifth iteration of this exercise. The instructions and template to complete the six-year plan are usually provided by SCHEV in late spring, typically at the time of the May Board meeting. Due to this timeline, the University has historically submitted the plan, to SCHEV by the July 1st deadline and then has presented it to the Board for approval at the next scheduled meeting, which is usually held in September. In July, the University is required to present the plan to a group of State representatives. This group will further review the plans over the July and August months, and provide comments in early September for all institutions to respond with updates or revisions, as appropriate, by October 1st. This process was once again followed for the 2019 Six Year Plan submission.

In preparation of the submission, the University reviewed the previous 2018 Six Year Plan update and determined which of the existing initiatives would remain and which new initiatives would be added. The 2019 Six-Year Plan reflects the priorities of the University and the objectives and goals outlined in Virginia Plan for Higher Education. The plan is divided in two parts. Part I is an Excel template with five components that includes a new section for Tuition Predictability Plans, Finance-Tuition & Other Nongeneral Fund Revenue, Academic-Financial Plan, General Fund Requests, Financial Aid Plan, and an Economic Development component that is intended to capture the institution's active contributions to stimulate the economic development of the Commonwealth. Part II provides a narrative summary of the proposed strategies and an evaluation of the most recent biennial six-year plan.

The strategies identified in the University’s 2019 Six-Year Plan were developed collaboratively with the leadership of each operating division, and incorporate multi-year budget initiatives.
developed in the previous cycle. Divisions reviewed their respective submissions and updated strategies to align with current priorities and objectives. The academic strategies related to programmatic growth were developed by the Provost through the respective academic unit.

The Tuition and Fee Predictability Plan presents multiple scenarios ranging from no new general fund support to a substantial investment from the state for both Radford University and Radford University Carilion. The funding of the proposed strategies are subject to change unless incremental general fund support is received. Additionally, approval of tuition and fees is the responsibility of the Board of Visitors and may be adjusted based upon factors such as incremental general fund support, legislative requirements, projected enrollment growth, and prioritization of strategies to implement.

Action:
Radford University Board of Visitors approval of the Radford University 2019 Six-Year Plan.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the University is authorized to revise the 2019 Six-Year Plan as required by State officials for final submission by the stated deadline.
Item:

Board of Visitors approval of the Radford University 2019-20 operating budget.

Executive Summary:

Each year, the Vice President for Finance and Administration & Chief Financial Officer is responsible for presenting Radford University’s (the University) projected annual operating budget to the Board of Visitors for the upcoming fiscal year. The 2019-20 operating budget was developed in consideration of projected enrollment levels, actions taken by the Governor and General Assembly during the 2019 session, Board-approved tuition and fee rates, the strategic goals of the University, and the economic outlook.

Since the rollout of the 2018-2023 Strategic Plan: Embracing the Tradition and Envisioning the Future, a conscious effort has been underway to align institutional resources in support of strategic plan objectives. The collaborative process of budget development has helped provide the framework for which all divisions review operating priorities and align their actions with strategic goals of the University. The information collected during this process was instrumental in development of the University’s Six-Year Plan submission to the Commonwealth and further helps to frame the strategic direction of the institution.

The budget development process for 2019-20 focused heavily on the establishment of Radford University Carilion (RUC) through the merger with Jefferson College of Health Sciences. With this merger, the University took a bold step toward achieving its goal to garner recognition for signature academic programs in health sciences, healthcare, and human services across the lifespan, as stated in the University’s Strategic Plan. Both entities entered the merger from positions of strength with sound financials, sustained enrollment demand, and highly ranked programs. This endeavor could not have been successful without the support of stakeholders from across the Commonwealth, and a drive to increase the number of healthcare graduates over the next five years. The results of the merger incorporated an additional 152 full-time equivalent positions and $22,341,370 into the University’s budget.

The 2019 General Assembly session was largely focused on providing all Virginians with the opportunity of an affordable education. The legislative session was highlighted by the passing of the 2019-20 amended budget which provided a pool of $52.5 million to be used for Tuition Moderation Funding to each institution of higher education who elected to hold in-state undergraduate tuition rates flat to prior year rates. This initiative represents a substantial investment in Virginia’s students. The University received $1,659,000 of this funding. The General Assembly also included additional funding to increase the previously planned salary actions for 2019-20. This raised the increases to 3.0 percent for across-the-board actions for faculty, to 2.75 percent for across-the-board actions for staff, and to 2.25 percent for staff merit increase.
Giving full consideration to the aforementioned items, the 2019-20 operating budget demonstrates a judicious use of University resources. The proposed budget identifies key operating efficiencies that help to address mandatory and unavoidable cost increases while maximizing funding opportunities for strategic plan initiatives.

Six-Year Planning Processes and 2019-20 Budget Development:

The Virginia Higher Education Opportunity Act of 2011 (TJ21) was passed by the 2011 General Assembly and is based on recommendations from the Governor’s Commission on Higher Education Reform, Innovation and Investment formed through Executive Order No. 9 issued in March 2010. The TJ21 legislation requires institutions of higher education to prepare and submit a “Six-Year Plan” by July 1st each year in accordance with criteria outlined by the Higher Education Advisory Committee (HEAC).

As an integral part of the six-year planning process, the University’s internal annual budget development cycle provides the opportunity to reevaluate the essential needs for the upcoming fiscal year and outline divisional priorities for the outlying years. The budget development review engages key personnel and provides a consistent mechanism to prioritize funding requests and strategically aligns the institution’s long-range goals with projected resources.

The University submitted the preliminary 2020-22 Six-Year Plan to the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia (SCHEV) on July 1, 2019 and will submit the final plan after Board action on October 1, 2019. The University’s Six-Year Plan identifies the targeted objectives and strategies to achieve both Virginia and institutional goals, and provides a foundation for preparing tuition and mandatory fee recommendations for consideration by the Board.

Enrollment Trend:

Between 2009-10 and 2013-14, the University’s enrollment increased by 1,050 students. However, since 2014-15, enrollment in traditional undergraduate programs has begun to stabilize to prior levels and additional student classifications are diversifying the enrollment portfolio. While total enrollment for 2019-20 is projected to be the largest ever for the University, the increase is from populations outside of the traditional undergraduate base of the University. The enrollment growth in the coming year is driven, in part, by a projected 1,100 additional RUC students added as a result of the merger with Jefferson College of Health Sciences and an additional 1,062 students enrolled in the University’s Competency Based Education (CBE) programs. Overall, undergraduate students are predicted to decrease by 307 from 2018-19 to 2019-20. This decrease, coupled with the dramatic increase in other student populations, represents a significant change in the enrollment classifications of the University population. The charts below show enrollment trends and identifies the fall enrollment since 1992 by student classification.
Mandatory Cost Increases:

2019 General Assembly Session Action

The 2019 General Assembly’s legislative session was largely focused on affordability of education for future generations of students. Governor Northam and the General Assembly made a substantial investment in students from the Commonwealth through their Tuition Moderation Plan, which provides base funding in lieu of tuition rate increases. This progressive approach to funding mandatory cost increases provides much needed relief to students in a time of rising student debt. The following schedule reflects the anticipated funding from the 2019 General Assembly Session, which provides additional general fund support for the University in 2019-20:

| Total E&G and SFA (combined) General Fund | $6,967,879 |

Notes:
Central Appropriation amounts are not included in the University’s line item appropriation. Instead they are held centrally by the Commonwealth and allocated after the start of the fiscal year. For this reason estimates have been provided.

Degree Production Initiative: General fund support of $1,028,460 designated to address increased degree production in Data Science and Technology, Science and Engineering, Healthcare, and Education.

Tuition Moderation: Funding offered to hold In-State Undergraduate Tuition rates flat to 2018-19 rates. This is base funding provided to address affordability for Virginia students.

In-State Undergraduate Financial Aid: General fund support of $994,206 for need-based Undergraduate Student Financial Assistance. The allocation of financial aid resources are important for the University and will assist in lowering the cost of higher education.
Other Mandatory Costs

In addition to the legislatively mandated items, the University must also address teaching and research faculty promotion and tenure contractual commitments, operation and maintenance of new and existing facilities, contractual escalators for technology and maintenance contracts, and recovery rate changes. These initiatives, referred to as central cost commitments, combine to total $348,310. For additional details, Attachment II provides a further breakdown of the mandatory cost requirements.

Funding Sources and Cost Drivers:

The Commonwealth’s policy for funding higher education is to fund 67 percent of the cost of education for in-state students. Figure 1 reflects the status of general fund support for the University’s educational and general (E&G) program from 2005 through 2020 (projected) in relation to this policy. Currently, general fund support for the E&G program is projected to be 43.7 percent for main campus in the 2019-20 fiscal year, and 38.3 percent including RUC.

As demonstrated in Figure 1, the 2019-20 projected E&G general fund split is significantly below the Commonwealth’s policy of 67 percent. The difference reflects funding of essential programmatic needs to support the University’s in-state student population.

Figure 2 displays the E&G general fund and nongeneral fund trends between 2002 and 2020 (projected). In 2010, as a result of the economic downturn and the sustained loss of general fund support, students and their families began funding the majority of the cost of education. The increase in nongeneral funds for 2020 relates primarily to the merger with JCHS and the related $20.6 million in Tuition and Fee revenue associated with the new RUC site. There is also an increase in general funds related to the $1.7 million allocation to RUC, as well as, infusion of support for Tuition Moderation Funding, and other mandatory cost increases.
Proposed Budget

2019-20 Projected Total Revenue

Radford University’s institutional budget is derived from two fund sources:

- General Fund (GF) – Virginia tax dollars (unrestricted), distributed through the Commonwealth’s budget process and documented through the Virginia Acts of Assembly (i.e. Appropriations Act).

- Nongeneral Fund (NGF) – tuition, mandatory (technology and comprehensive) fees, user (room and board) fees, other E&G and auxiliary enterprises fees, grants/contracts/research, federal student work study, and commissions (e.g. dining services, bookstore, laundry, etc.).

For fiscal year 2019-20 the University is projecting the largest total revenue budget in it’s history at $255.5 million. This reflects an 11.3 percent increase above the 2018-19 Adjusted Total Budget. The increase is attributable to incremental operating support and increased student financial aid from the Commonwealth, Board-approved fee rates, as well as, the addition of Tuition and Fees for RUC.

The majority of the University’s total operating budget (72.9 percent) is supported through nongeneral fund sources. The remaining 27.1 percent is supported through the general fund. Figure 3 displays the breakdown of projected revenue by major funding sources.
2019-20 Projected Total Expenditures

Expenditures are expected to total $247.2 million for 2019-20. Projected expenditures are set less than projected revenues due to required Auxiliary Enterprises reserve fund deposits that must be generated to meet the SCHEV guidelines for operating, equipment renewal and replacement, and capital projects.

Figure 5 illustrates projected expenditures for each of the major programs which include:

- Educational & General (E&G): Activities to provide instruction, research, public service, academic support (e.g., library, deans), student support services (e.g., admissions, financial aid, registrar), and program support (e.g., administration, institutional support, physical plant) services.

- Student Financial Assistance: Activities to provide financial assistance to Virginia students.

- Financial Assistance for Educational and General Services Program (Sponsored Programs, Grants and Contracts): Activities to provide additional resources for educational and general services through third-party grants, contracts, and research.
- Auxiliary Enterprises: Self-supporting activities to provide goods or services to students, faculty, staff, and visitors (e.g. residence halls, dining services, bookstore, athletics, student activities, etc.).

The E&G program represents 62.7 percent of the expenditures budgeted while Auxiliary Enterprises accounts for 28.2 percent. The remaining 9.1 percent is split between Student Financial Assistance and Sponsored Programs.

!2019-20 Projected Expenditures - All Funds ($ in millions)

Attachment I and Schedules A and B provide an overview of the University’s proposed 2019-20 operating budget by major program. Attachment I details the 2019-20 Funded E&G Initiatives by Division, Schedule A provides an overview of the 2019-20 Total University Operating Budget, and Schedule B reflects the 2019-20 Auxiliary Enterprise Budget by major program area.

The following is a narrative description by major program to complement the financial information presented in Attachment I and Schedules A and B.

Educational & General (E&G) Program

The Educational and General (E&G) program supports instruction, academic support, libraries, public service, student services, institutional support, and operation/maintenance of the physical plant. The proposed 2019-20 E&G operating budget (base and one-time) totals $155.0 million. The projected increase in E&G revenue is primarily derived from incremental tuition revenue associated with RUC.
In 2019-20, the percentage of the E&G budget supported by general funds is projected to be 41.7 percent, or 37.2 percent if RUC is included in the calculation. The University is anticipated to receive $5.9 million in new general funds over the previous year for central appropriation adjustments, legislative mandated salary and fringe benefit rate increases, tuition moderation, degree production, and operational investments in RUC bringing total general funds to $57.7 million. Projected E&G nongeneral fund revenue is derived primarily from tuition and fees at $95.6 million with all other E&G revenue totaling $3.6 million.

Resource Allocations

During the May 2019 Board of Visitors meeting, programmatic priorities were outlined and incorporated into the proposed 2019-20 budget. Attachment I provides an overview of the E&G base budget initiatives funded in 2019-20. In addition, Attachment II illustrates the initial budget assumptions provided to the Board in May 2019, as well as, any changes that occurred prior to finalization of the actual 2019-20 operating budget.

Student Financial Assistance Program

Commonwealth support from the general fund is appropriated for scholarships and fellowships to undergraduate and graduate students. The authorized general fund appropriation for fiscal year 2019-20 is $11.6 million, an increase of $994,206 over fiscal year 2018-19. In addition to general fund support, the University continues to commit $1.9 million from institutional nongeneral fund resources to support undergraduate need-based financial aid.

Financial Assistance for Educational and General Services Program (Grants/Contracts) –

The University receives external funding for grants and contracts from a variety of federal, state, private, and local sources. For fiscal year 2019-20, estimated annual activity for Sponsored Programs is projected at $8.9 million.

Auxiliary Enterprises Program

The Auxiliary Enterprises program supports student service activities such as residential life, dining, athletics, recreation, student health, and transportation. Funding for this program is generated from contract commissions and fees assessed to students and/or users. The Commonwealth requires Auxiliary Enterprises to be financially self-supporting. For this reason, general fund support and tuition revenue cannot be allocated to these activities.

For fiscal year 2019-20, the revenue budget for Auxiliary Enterprises is projected to be $77.9 million. It should be noted that all auxiliary budgets were adjusted to account for salary increases and fringe benefit rate changes, the alignment of indirect costs, and utility changes, as necessary.

It is projected that approximately $8.3 million will be generated in 2019-20 for reserve fund contributions which can be used for future debt service, maintenance reserve projects, and construction and/or renovation costs associated with future capital projects. The following are future considerations for auxiliary reserve balances: residence hall improvements, athletic complex renovations, equipment renewal and replacement, and land acquisition.

2018-2023 Strategic Plan Overall Impacts

- Specific goals incorporated into each sub-committee deliberation
- Overarching goal to grow student body 3% annually through 2023 generates traditional on-campus headcount of 10,500+/-
  - Based on current space utilization and programs, the present campus building inventory can generally serve the needs - limited requirements to grow basic campus academic footprint over the 10-year Master Plan window
  - Concentration on renovations and repurposing
  - Specific added footprint needs to be reviewed as identified
- Provide expanded and varied academic delivery methods and tools for classes
Master Plan 2020-2030

Summary of Initial Discussions

• Include both on-campus and off-campus - RUC Roanoke campus, RHEC, SWVHEC, RU Corporate Park and Selu
• Investigate current space usage efficiency/utilization
• Review residences for multi-use (living-learning, non-traditional, new off-campus space, etc.)
• Better connect central campus to athletics/recreation campus
• Improve front door/campus perimeter and overall campus wayfinding
• Improve transportation and parking programs
• Incorporate/connect to City of Radford
Campus Forums Feedback Themes

- Campus descriptions - compact, home-like, red, green space, scenic, traditional, beautiful
- Improve parking/transportation - commuters, visitors, transit routes
- Improve front door and campus perimeter
- Provide/improve meeting/gathering/event spaces
- Connection to New River - rafting, adjacent trails, biking and recreation
- Work with City to improve retail/dining/etc. offerings
Summary

- Classrooms - Inventory is strained during peak hours. Adjusting classroom capacity mix and scheduling practices may help alleviate the strain.

- Class Laboratories – None of the disciplines meet the study’s or SCHEV’s average utilization targets. Consider analyzing lab space needs in more depth and verify that labs are classified correctly.

- Office Space - Existing inventory should be sufficient. Consider standardizing office size when programming new space or reconfiguring existing space.

- Overall - NASF per Student FTE (124) is lower than expected for an institution similar to Radford (135-145).

Parking Study Information

Overall Observations
• Parking and transportation system is well organized and efficiently operated.
• Based on peer comparisons, parking count survey and total permits, there are adequate total parking spaces available (71% filled and 29% available at time of survey).
• Spaces are unevenly distributed, with respect to both location and type of permit.
• Condition and capacities of existing parking lots are in good condition overall.
• Transit buses run regularly to all campus and parking locations.

Items for Further Discussion and Analysis
• Create new lots at perimeter of main campus.
• Consider shorter circulator transit route that only serves campus perimeter, and one that only serves campus perimeter and remote lots.
• Consider redistribution of class times to spread out parking.
• Rework central campus lots to remove dead-ends.

Ms. Chachra shared the total giving overview with $12,085,152 raised to date.

Ms. Chachra also shared information provided by Vice President for University Relations and Chief of Staff Ashley Schumaker, who provided a summary of the current marketing approach and noted the final stage of the annual campaign is in process. The campaign has generated a total of 34.5 million impressions over 24.5 million reported as of the last Board meeting with streaming TV, digital video, paid social and paid search creating the greatest amount of activity. Ms. Chachra noted that the video completion rates are at 96 percent, compared to the industry benchmark of 76 percent. REPORT FROM THE FACULTY REPRESENTATIVE TO THE BOARD
President of Faculty Senate Jake Fox, Ph.D. and Interim Director of Core Curriculum Nicole Hendrix, Ph.D. presented to the Board of Visitors the approved REAL Model of General Education. Dr. Fox began the report by providing an overview of the general education reform process up to date. He stated that the process was initiated based on feedback from the 2017 General Education Task Force, which was charged with aligning the Core Curriculum assessment with new SCHEV guidelines, and from the Core Curriculum Advisory Committee, which oversees the current general education program. Both groups recommended a longer, more thorough review and revision of general education at Radford University. He continued by stating that since 2017, the general education reform effort has passed through several steps. All of these efforts have been completely faculty driven with the teams and committees created by the Faculty Senate and the representatives on the teams have been either appointed by the Faculty Senate or elected by the general faculty of the colleges.
Dr. Fox continued by providing a timeline of the general education reform process beginning with the Faculty Senate voting in September 2018 to formally adopt the Academic Values identified and developed by the Academic Values Exploration Team. In November 2018, the Faculty Senate voted to formally adopt the Guiding Principles identified and developed by the General Education Principles and Model Team. In April 2019, the Faculty Senate voted to formally approve the REAL Model for the future of general education at Radford University. In May 2019, the Faculty Senate voted to create the REAL Curriculum Planning Committee. This Committee’s work includes developing specific learning outcomes associated with the “foundations” section and the subject areas of the REAL Model. In May 2019, the Faculty Senate voted to create the REAL Implementation Steering Committee. This Committee is made up of faculty from across campus, faculty leaders from the Faculty Senate and administrative representatives. The Committee’s work is focused on articulating the many academic and administrative units on campus with the REAL Model, including developing timelines for implementation and launch of this innovative model of general education.

Dr. Hendrix continued the presentation by explaining how the predominant approach to general education in America is the distribution model, which traditionally includes a few components and characteristics: an array of knowledge areas, fulfilled by coursework; a focus on breadth with less concern for depth or connection; and in seeking breadth, most distribution models strictly limit what is called “cross-crediting” so that courses counted in general education cannot simultaneously fill requirements in degree programs. She continued by stating that Radford University’s Core Curriculum is a fairly conventional distribution model. Dr. Hendrix explained that although Core Curriculum, or any general education program, sometimes helps students find areas they love that they did not know about, we also often hear that students view core curriculum as a rite of passage that they must get through in order to get to the “fun stuff,” the degree programs that attracted them to Radford in the first place. Because of this and the swiftly changing landscape of higher education and our society, the Radford University faculty have raised a new question. Could general education do more?

Dr. Hendrix shared with the Board of Visitors members that, under the REAL Model, it allows for what is called free cross-crediting. This means that courses can count wherever they can. Courses can count in majors, minors and will simultaneously fulfill areas and competencies in general education. This will allow an increase for students in potential free credits and gives students opportunities to add majors and minors to broaden their credentials. She continued by stating that the new model includes two foundational courses to ensure that students have the competencies needed to succeed in their academic programs: one in writing and one in math.

Dr. Hendrix continued by explaining that REAL asks students to select majors and minors in four diverse and purposeful areas but to also go beyond a single course and push themselves deeper. Students will take three courses, with at least one at the 300 level, in all four areas. And, all students must complete two writing intensive courses:

- R – Scientific and Quantitative Reasoning – Math and Science, but broader.
- E – Humanistic or Artistic Expression – Humanities and Fine Arts, but broader.
- A – Cultural or Behavioral Analysis – Social and Behavioral Analysis, but broader.
- L – Applied Learning – Knowledge in action, application of learning and academic study to real world problems.

In conclusion, Dr. Hendrix stated this curriculum puts students at the center and academics at the forefront of the Radford University experience. She continued by stating that students’ Highlander identity is strengthened, and they will find more clarity and meaning in their education. Instead of completing a general education check sheet, freshmen and sophomores are developing academic affiliation with programs and faculty, REAL is a platform for engagement and more meaningful interactions with peers and faculty and attachment to Radford University. REAL is intentionally designed with the flexibility to serve the needs of all students including athletes, transfer students, those with dual enrollment credits, and those in very credit heavy major programs. It is also consistent with Radford’s accreditation requirements, departments and campus-wide. Because the REAL Model empowers student choice, the model is flexible and responsive. This is a general education program that is self-correcting and designed to evolve, along with our student, campus and community. A copy of the report is attached hereto as Attachment H is made a part hereof.

About the Retention Summit

Nearly 300 members of the Radford University family participated in the inaugural Retention Summit on January 17, 2019 by attending the opening session and related remarks, as well as the keynote address by Timothy P. Culver, Ph.D., from Ruffalo Noel Levitz, which were open to the entire campus community.

The event was held in the Davis College of Business and Economics, where students, faculty, staff and administrators gathered to thoughtfully and intentionally discuss retention data and related trends and identify areas of opportunity related to retention on Radford’s campus by brainstorming solutions and offering recommendations.

The diverse mix of 125 participants was selected by various institutional administrators and shared governance leaders to attend the day-long Summit, which was organized to support retention goals as outlined in the Fall 2017 Student Success and Retention Action Plan and the 2018-2023 Strategic Plan, Embracing the Tradition and Envisioning the Future.

Following the morning presentations, participants were divided into smaller groups for two-hour breakout sessions.

During that time, each group was asked to develop a presentation based on a certain topic, including: challenges related to first-generation, first-year and second-year students; early indicators that might demonstrate a student is struggling personally and academically; institutional processes and programs that have become barriers to student success; and collaboration among the Radford family to improve students’ academic and social connections to the campus and the community.

The day-long participants reconvened in the afternoon, and a representative from each group presented their findings and offered specific recommendations.

Observations about the current state of retention and recommendations about the future state of retention are outlined in this final report.

“I say that we can do better, and we must do better. And, with your help and with the people that we have in this room, I am confident that we will do better. Retention is one of the most critical issues facing our University today.”

— President Brian O. Hemphill, Ph.D.
Observations: The Current State of Retention at Radford University

Retention Summit attendees were asked to provide their observations and feedback regarding a number of areas, including: specific student groups, such as first-generation, first-year and sophomore; and other factors impacting student success and retention generally and at Radford University specifically.

Overcoming Challenges for First-Generation and First-Year Students

For first-generation students and their families, it is often difficult to navigate the interworkings of the academy from application to admission and beyond. The culture and vocabulary of postsecondary education are vastly different than that of secondary education. The transition to college is overwhelming for many first-generation and first-year students. Once enrolled in classes, these students experience a variety of competing demands, such as financial, familial, personal, health, etc. All of these demands compete with their focus on their studies and engagement in and out of the classroom.

Academically, students want to be challenged. Students must see the value and relevance of the curriculum. Challenge and relevance need to remain at the forefront of all student outreach and scholarly work. Students need to feel connected. Therefore, students must engage widely with the campus and in the community. As such, faculty and staff must connect students to our University and the New River Valley early and often. There must be continued visibility of administrators, faculty and other forms of support for students. Radford University must meet students whereby they are truly understanding, acknowledging and celebrating their differences.

Overcoming Challenges for Sophomore Students

There is not an intentional effort to engage sophomore students. As such, this is a student population that experiences less engagement and interaction with the institution and its constituents. These students often need assistance in order to find their passion and connect with their majors. Their networks are continuously changing in that they lose some peers, while gaining others. They need to engage with partners for success, such as faculty and staff. At Radford University, these partners are critical to encouraging and facilitating success.

“To be successful in our retention efforts, we cannot work in silos. We must continue our collaborations and partnerships and continue to think broadly to expand collaborative opportunities. Our interactions with students are important. A single interaction can change a student’s trajectory.”

— Vice President for Student Affairs

Addressing Early Indicators of Struggling Students

A lack of involvement and engagement can be a sign of family issues and/or financial insecurities. Issues with class attendance and midterm grades can be a sign of homesickness or an overall lack of connection to the campus and the community. Students may struggle due to a lack of clear expectations from faculty and staff. Students may also struggle due to their own limited knowledge of expectations and requirements for success — both big and small. Certain class behaviors, such as not attending class, arriving to class late, not doing homework, not participating in class discussions or group assignments and not having books, are clear — and often early — signs of trouble for students. At Radford University, like many other institutions, these behaviors are even more troubling if they are reoccurring in a single course or across multiple courses.
Removing Barriers of Processes, Policies and Procedures

There are a number of processes, policies and procedures that impede student engagement and related success. Faculty and staff are known to work collaboratively with students to assist them in navigating the required tasks of persisting through their academic careers. At Radford University, retention is everyone's business, and individuals from across the campus make a daily effort to enable and encourage student success.

Collaborating to Improve Students’ Academic and Social Connection

Faculty and staff are known for building bridges instead of barriers in order to assist and engage with students. Students must experience an overlap in their academic and social resilience in order to lay the groundwork for current and future success. In recent years at Radford University, student engagement and success have been enhanced due to affinity- and major-based living-learning communities.

“Radford University has a rich heritage of providing world-class academic programs. As we continue to expand programs and embrace a diverse student population, we have to evolve our approach to how we serve at every touchpoint. We must create a service-oriented culture where students, faculty and staff are empathetic and helpful.”

— Executive Director of the Center for Career and Talent Development Angela Joyner, Ph.D.

“Faculty engagement with students in and out of the classroom is the foundation of what we do well at Radford University. In my experience, students who connect with faculty on research and scholarship projects are more likely to find their passion and build the skills needed to make it a reality. From a faculty perspective, student engagement and achievement is the currency of my career. Every young mind that I turn on is a point of pride because I have helped them overcome barriers and become successful scholars and citizens.”

— Associate Professor of Geospatial Science Stockton Maxwell, Ph.D.
“It is important for Radford University to follow evidence-based assessment practices to identify the current retention strategies that have been shown to be most successful. Once identified, these best strategies can then be implemented utilizing a broad-based approach that will benefit all student populations. The Office of Institutional Effectiveness and Quality Improvement looks forward to being a critical partner in this important work.”

— Director of the Office of Institutional Effectiveness and Quality Improvement Sandra Baker, Ph.D.

“The Retention Summit is a statement to current students that Radford University is making efforts to improve their experience. I felt honored as a student to have a seat at the table and share my ideas.”

— John Register ’19

“In partnership with Enrollment Management, Student Affairs and University Advancement, Radford University has made great strides during the 2018-2019 academic year toward parent and family engagement. Communication with our parents and families has been a priority and will continue to be a priority moving forward. The Retention Summit is a great reminder that, in order for our students to be successful, we must engage with them on-campus, off-campus and at home. This continues to be a critical part of fulfilling the University’s mission on this campus and serving our students.”

— Vice President for University Advancement Wendy Lowery
Recommendations: The Future State of Retention at Radford University

From the inaugural Retention Summit, four overarching themes containing a multitude of recommendations emerged. The themes are: expanding the first-year experience; creating the sophomore experience; embracing case management through the advising experience; and capturing the student timeline.

Expanding the First-Year Experience

Radford University should expand the first-year experience to expose students to the breadth and quality of academic programming, including general education. The introduction of bridge programs and/or courses will assist in easing the transition of first-generation and first-year students. UNIV 100 should become mandatory for all freshman students in an effort to ease their transition to campus life and provide support for their success in the first year and beyond. There should be an email distribution list and a series of email announcements specifically geared toward the adjustments of first-year students and in alignment with UNIV 100 assignments and experiences. The success of UNIV 100 is dependent upon faculty instructors or peer instructors and their commitment to and engagement with their students.

Creating the Sophomore Experience

Radford University should create a comprehensive sophomore experience that includes both academic and personal connections. This experience should involve increasing interaction with major-specific faculty and maintaining communication during breaks and over the summer. This experience should also address the importance and value of prerequisites and 200-level courses. This experience should provide seamless academic advising experiences and academic and career pathways, with a deep dive into academics, internships and other engaging, real-world and valuable experiences. A UNIV 200 course approach is recommended as a customized major-focused introductory experience in the sophomore year. The sophomore year is also the ideal time to establish academic discipline groups and expand peer education initiatives.

“It was wonderful to hear faculty, staff and students from all areas of campus have an open conversation about how we can improve our efforts to work together in supporting our students in ways that would increase retention and persistence. The day was energizing, and I am excited about the possibilities and our work to come.”

Embracing Case Management Through the Advising Experience

In an effort to provide a customized and high-touch environment, Radford University should establish and implement a case management model for all students. Case management approaches are currently being utilized at Radford University in the College of Education and Human Development and the Department of Athletics. Additionally, midterm grades should be reported and available to all students in an effort to continually provide students with real-time information regarding their academic experience and overall success. Radford University should expand the utilization of Starfish in order to identify and monitor all students, especially those who may be exhibiting behaviors and patterns that are barriers to achieving their academic and personal goals. As part of Quest, Starfish should be utilized in order to flag potential issues for follow-up once students arrive on campus.

Furthermore, Radford University has the responsibility of providing all students with continuous and comprehensive advising throughout their academic careers. Therefore, Radford University must make increased investments in advising. The University’s advising approach should have a personal touch with the appropriate level of resources and a centralized channel of communication. Advising should be available during times in which students would utilize those services, including evening and weekend hours. Through a help desk approach, advising would be available on-demand, thereby making it more accessible and convenient for students. Radford University should identify structural challenges and implement sound practices that result in intuitive exploration for students and the faculty and staff assisting them. This could include collaborative exploration centers for both majors and minors that can serve a broad range of students simultaneously.

Capturing the Student Timeline

Radford University should create a student timeline that serves as a roadmap from the first day of class to graduation. In order for students to be successful in pursuing their educational goals, they must have access to clear expectations. Therefore, the student timeline will serve as a personalized, detailed academic calendar, outlining key requirements and milestones. Awareness, knowledge and planning are keys to success. And, at Radford University, we must provide students with information and resources for success!
“We are truly committed to all of our students. One thing we need to think about and talk about is our belief that if we admit a student, they have the ability to graduate from this institution. It requires us to increase our efforts and for students to increase their efforts in terms of working toward that degree and that success. We all know that their success is our success. We are fully committed to giving all students the opportunity to develop and grow on this campus.”

RE: President’s Report

Thank you for the opportunity to provide an update and share my perspectives about Radford University as we are completing the 2018-2019 academic year. The campus community is in the final stages of concluding the Spring 2019 semester strong as evidenced by the many accomplishments and progress of our students, as well as our world-class faculty and dedicated staff.

Strategic Planning Implementation and Student Venture Lab

Since the December 2017 adoption of our strategic plan, Embracing the Tradition and Envisioning the Future, much progress has been made. The first in a series of progress reports, representing the Fall 2018 semester, was posted on the University’s website in January. The next progress report, highlighting the Spring 2019 semester, will be shared in early June.

In a recent campus announcement, I shared an exciting development regarding the Student Venture Lab, an innovative concept included in the Economic Development and Community Partnerships focal area of the strategic plan. As outlined in the plan, the University is to establish and operate a business incubator, referred to as the Student Venture Lab, to promote new start-ups.

Due to the diligent efforts of many, including the Radford University Venture Lab Steering Committee, a space for the Venture Lab has been identified, and construction has begun. A variety of spaces across campus were considered for the Venture Lab’s physical site and permanent home. Ultimately, the lower level of the Davis College of Business and Economics was selected due to its private entrance, around-the-clock access and already completed primary structure work. The Radford University Venture Lab will be completed and opened during the Fall 2019 semester.

I would like to acknowledge members of the Venture Lab Steering Committee for their work and Professor of Management Steve Childers for his leadership. Please join me in acknowledging this group for their outstanding efforts.
Retention Summit Final Report
As a Radford family, we joined together earlier this year for the inaugural Retention Summit, which provided a unique opportunity for our campus to engage in broad and collaborative discussion as we continue to serve current and future students in an outstanding academic and fully supportive environment. As part of the Summit, 125 students, faculty and staff participated in breakout groups, resulting in specific observations and comprehensive recommendations related to student retention and success. From these discussions, the Retention Summit Final Report was developed, distributed to the campus community, and is being shared with each of you today.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincerest appreciation to those who attended the Retention Summit and provided the observations and recommendations outlined in the Final Report. Additionally, I would like to acknowledge the many offices and departments across campus that have contributed greatly to providing an engaging and positive student experience at Radford University. The early results of our recent efforts include a significant increase in our fall to spring retention rate. This indicator of success has increased from 85.7% in 2017 to 90.7% in 2018. Our fall to spring retention rate has not been at this level since 2010. This is a strong foundation upon which we will continue to build.

Recently, Timothy P. Culver, Ph.D., the Retention Summit’s keynote speaker, returned to campus as we partner with Ruffalo Noel Levitz to reimagine retention programming, outreach and service. Last month’s visit by Dr. Culver represented the first in a series of visits. Dr. Culver will return to campus in just a few short weeks to continue this important work. As we move forward together, the Retention Summit Final Report, as well as the strong partnership with Ruffalo Noel Levitz and the direct engagement with Dr. Culver, will guide the University's retention efforts and ensure the success of current and future generations of Highlanders.

New River Community College Partnership
On April 4, 2019, I was honored to join with New River Community College (NRCC) President Patricia B. Huber, Ph.D. to sign a Guaranteed Transfer Partnership Agreement and participate in a ribbon cutting for the Highlander Hub, which is located in Godbey Hall on the Dublin campus. The expanded partnership, which is the result of more than a year of collaboration and planning, is aimed at strengthening the existing partnership between NRCC and Radford University to assist students and their families with college affordability.

The newly-expanded partnership will ensure credits earned by NRCC students transfer to Radford University, thereby saving students time and money. Students taking advantage of the Guaranteed Transfer Partnership Agreement will seamlessly transfer from NRCC to Radford University. The agreement stipulates that NRCC graduates will have guaranteed admission to Radford University. The agreement also allows students to fully transfer all NRCC courses that meet degree requirements in a baccalaureate program at Radford University without losing any prior credits earned at NRCC. At Radford University, select academic programs are participating in the initial phase of the guaranteed transfer partnership, with additional programs joining over time.

This partnership is incredibly important to our institutions as we have a long-standing history of working together as educational and service partners to enhance our local communities and the Commonwealth of Virginia through the lives of our students and their families. This agreement will establish a truly seamless transfer for NRCC students to Radford University and aligns with our shared commitment to accessibility and affordability.

Radford University Carilion

On April 22, 2019, as part of the final Spirit Day for Jefferson College of Health Sciences, I was honored to join with colleagues from Carilion Clinic and Jefferson College of Health Sciences to formally announce the naming of Radford University Carilion. The name and logo were announced as we continue working together to advance the merger of Jefferson College of Health Sciences into Radford University in the Summer of 2019.

For Radford University, the announcement signified yet another step forward in making our bold vision a reality. To mark our growing partnership and enhanced opportunities for current and future students, we chose a strong name that showcases our critical focus and allows important work to grow in the future. The Radford family looks forward to officially welcoming Jefferson College of Health Sciences students, faculty, staff, alumni and friends as Highlanders in preparing to open Radford University Carilion for the upcoming academic year.

In January 2018, Carilion Clinic, Jefferson College of Health Sciences and Radford University jointly announced the intention to merge Jefferson College of Health Sciences into the Radford University family of colleges and departments over the course of the following 18 to 24 months. Both institutions came from positions of strength and believed that by joining forces, we could build something even stronger. Since then, our organizations have accomplished key milestones on the way to merging the two schools, including passage of legislation in the Virginia General Assembly authorizing the merger and the submission of our merger plans to the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACSCOC) for approval at their June meeting.

Tech Talent Investment Program

Last week, Radford University submitted a proposal to the Commonwealth of Virginia for funding consideration as part of the Tech Talent Investment Program. The proposal, which was created by the Artis College of Science and Technology in collaboration with the Division of Finance and Administration, will double the number of students graduating from Radford University with a Bachelor of Science in Computer Science and Technology, as well as a Bachelor of Science in Cybersecurity, if approved by the Commonwealth.
The core of Radford University’s proposal is focused around working with the Virginia Community College System (VCCS) to develop a distance completion program moving students from VCCS institutions to Radford University’s four-year degree program. A collaborative and comprehensive plan has been developed to work with community college partners. The program will require Radford University to not only accept students from VCCS, but to create a long-term partnership, which will include program curriculum development, program promotion, and academic integrity collaboration. In order to ensure a pipeline of students from VCCS institutions, a Radford University faculty member will be assigned to each campus interested in creating pathways from their programs into the new distance completion program. Faculty liaisons will be assigned from the Department of Information Technology to each community college partner with the intention of developing this new distance completion program. The proposal also provides for the hiring of five full-time faculty members at Radford University, as well as community college representatives to provide direct work related to Radford University curriculum development, advising activities, and academic integrity support.

As articulated in the proposal, Radford University is poised to make an increased impact on the workforce needs of the Commonwealth of Virginia, especially when considering the emerging tech talent pipeline. Designated as a National Center of Academic Excellence in Cyber Defense Education by both the National Security Agency and the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, Radford University has a proven record of educating talented students, who become skilled professionals when they enter their chosen fields. With recent investments from the Commonwealth in state-of-the-art facilities for the Artis College of Science and Technology, housed in the recently constructed Center for the Sciences and the on-going renovation of Reed and Curie Halls, Radford University is well equipped to attract, retain and graduate capable students, as well as attract and retain top faculty.

Radford University’s proposal for the Tech Talent Investment Program was submitted to the Commonwealth by the May 3, 2019 deadline in response to the first in a series of calls for proposals. It is anticipated that funding decisions on the first round will be formally announced during the Fall of 2019.

Spring 2019 Commencement: Celebrating the Class of 2019

Excitement is building for Commencement. Later today, the Graduate Hooding and Commencement Ceremony will be held followed by tomorrow’s Commencement Ceremony. The Radford family is looking forward to the second year of a revised format in which each graduate will receive direct acknowledgement for their achievement.

Highlights from the Class of 2019 include:

- 1,579 undergraduate students;
- 297 graduate students;
- 1,876 total graduates;

RESOLUTION TO AMEND THE
TEACHING AND RESEARCH FACULTY HANDBOOK

May 10, 2019

WHEREAS, all proposed changes to the Teaching and Research Faculty Handbook must be managed in accord with §5.0 of that handbook; and

WHEREAS, the authority to amend or revise the Faculty Handbook lies with the Board of Visitors. However, proposals for revising the Handbook may be initiated by faculty, administrators, the President, or members of the Board of Visitors. Revisions fall into two categories: (1) those required to ensure that the University is in compliance with state policies and mandates, and (2) those within the purview of the decision-making processes within the University; and

WHEREAS, revisions required to ensure that the University is in compliance with state policies and mandates, and that do not require a decision by University personnel, will be effected through an administrative update, with faculty being informed of the change and the reasons for it; and

WHEREAS, revisions within the purview of the decision-making processes in the University Internal Governance system will be considered by the appropriate committees as defined by the Internal Governance system. Proposals for changes will be made in the form of text intended to replace a portion of the Teaching and Research Faculty Handbook, noting new language and striking out the old language; and

WHEREAS, it will be the Faculty Senate’s responsibility to ensure that the general faculty is provided time and opportunity to review the proposed change so faculty can communicate with their senators prior to any action by the Faculty Senate; and

WHEREAS, the Faculty Senate’s recommendations on proposed revisions to the Teaching and Research Faculty Handbook will be forwarded to and approved by the President. The Provost will forward the Faculty Senate’s recommendations to the Academic Excellence and Research Committee who will in turn make recommendations to the full Board of Visitors;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Radford University Board of Visitors hereby approves in accordance with §5.0 of the Teaching and Research Faculty Handbook, Section 1.8.4, Composition of Faculty Appeals Committees and Section 1.9.5, Composition of Faculty Grievance Committee of the Teaching and Research Faculty Handbook to hereby amend to revise the language regarding the composition of the two committees. Said sections are to now read as follows (deletions are strikethrough and additions are in red):

1.8.4 Composition of Faculty Appeals Committees

The Faculty Appeals Committee shall consist of ten elected tenured faculty members. Representation is as follows: three representatives elected from the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences, one from the College of Business and Economics, one from the College of Education and Human Development, one from the College of Visual and Performing Arts, two from the College of Science and Technology, and one from the Waldron College of Health and Human Services. One faculty member will be elected at large by the University faculty. When colleges have multiple representatives, the representatives must come from different... departments. Elections must take place prior to the end of the spring semester for the following academic year according to the Academic Governance document terms of service on committees. Ten representatives will be divided among the undergraduate colleges proportionate to the number of full-time faculty within each college, to be calculated every four years by the University Internal Governance Review Committee. Colleges must establish procedures to address allocation changes in representation.

One alternate member shall be elected to the committee from each college. Colleges should establish procedures to ensure that the alternate is not from the same department as the elected member who may temporarily be replaced. Alternates should be those faculty who received the second highest number of votes and are members of a Department other than that in which the committee member elected serves. One alternate member shall be elected for the at-large faculty representative. This shall be the faculty who received the second highest number of votes in the at-large election and who is a member of a department other than that in which the elected at-large member serves.

No member may be elected to serve concurrently as principal or alternative on both the Faculty Appeals Committee and the Faculty Grievance Committee. Elected members and alternates will serve three-year terms. Transfer in membership will occur at the first meeting of the fall semester. The terms should be staggered so that each year one-third of the members are elected. Committee members may serve more than one term. At the beginning of the fall term of each academic year, the President of the Faculty Senate shall designate the convener of the Faculty Appeals Committee from among the elected members of that committee. The Faculty Appeals Committee shall elect its own chair.

No committee member shall participate in any deliberations when the appellant is a member of her or his department. Nor may a committee member serve as an appellant’s advocate in any matter brought before the committee. In addition, a committee member may excuse himself or herself or may be excused by the Chair of the committee from participation in proceedings any time there is a conflict of interest, a potential conflict of interest or even the appearance of a conflict of interest. In such cases, the member will be temporarily replaced by the alternate from her or his college. In the event there is disagreement between a committee member and the committee Chair as to whether or not the committee member should be so excused, the matter will be resolved by vote of the committee.

One alternate committee member shall be elected to the committee from each college. Colleges must establish procedures to ensure that the alternate is not from the same department as the elected member who is temporarily replaced. Additionally, alternates should be those faculty who received the next highest number of votes.

1.9.5 Composition of Faculty Grievance Committee

The Faculty Grievance Committee shall consist of ten elected tenured faculty members. Representation is as follows: three representatives elected from the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences, one from the College of Business and Economics, one from the College of Education and Human Development, one from the College of Visual and Performing Arts, two from the College of Science and Technology, and one from the Waldron College of Health and Human Services. One faculty member will be elected at large by the University faculty.

When colleges have multiple representatives, the representatives must come from different departments. Elections must take place prior to the end of the spring semester for the following academic year according to the Academic Governance document terms of service on committees. Ten representatives will be divided among the undergraduate colleges proportionate to the number of full-time faculty within each college, to be calculated every four years by the University Internal Governance Review Committee. Colleges must establish procedures to address allocation changes in representation.

No member may be elected to serve concurrently on both the Faculty Appeals Committee and the Faculty Grievance Committee.

No member may be elected to serve concurrently as principal or alternative on both the Faculty Appeals Committee and the Faculty Grievance Committee. Committee members and alternates will serve three year terms. Transfer in membership will occur at the first meeting of the fall semester. The committee may meet at any time during the calendar year, not just the academic year. The terms should be staggered so that each year one-third of the representatives are elected. Committee members may serve more than one term. The President of Faculty Senate shall convene the first meeting of the committee no later than the fourth week of the fall semester. The Grievance Committee shall elect its own chair.

No committee member shall participate in any deliberations when the grievant is a member of her or his department. Nor may a committee member serve as an appellants grievant’s advocate in any matter brought before the committee on which that member is actively serving. In addition, a committee member may excuse himself or herself or may be excused by the Chair of the committee from participation in proceedings any time there is a conflict of interest, a potential conflict of interest or even the appearance of a conflict of interest. In such cases, the committee member will be temporarily replaced by the alternate from his or her college. In the event there is disagreement between a committee member and the committee Chair as to whether or not the committee member should be so excused, the matter will be resolved by vote of the committee.

Elected members and alternates will serve three-year terms. The terms should be staggered so that each year one-third of the members are elected. Members may serve more than one term. One alternate member-representative shall be elected to the committee from each college. Colleges should establish procedures to ensure that the alternate is not from the same department as the elected member who may temporarily be replaced. Alternates should be those faculty who received the second highest number of votes and are members of a department other than that in which the committee member elected serves. One alternate member shall be elected for the at-large faculty representative. This shall be the faculty who received the second highest number of votes in the at-large election and who is a member of a department other than that in which the elected at-large member serves.

At the beginning of the Fall term of each academic year, the President of the Faculty Senate shall designate the convener of the Faculty Grievance Committee from among the elected members of that committee. The Faculty Grievance Committee shall elect its own chair.

Resolution
May 10, 2019

Approval of Personal Property Transfer from Roanoke Higher Education Center

WHEREAS, Radford University (the “Transferee/Buyer”) is a charter member of the Roanoke Higher Education Center (“RHEC”). Radford University currently offers undergraduate degree completion programs at the RHEC, as well as administers the Clinical Simulation Center. The School of Nursing in Radford University’s Waldron College of Health and Human Services operates the Clinical Simulation Center. The Clinical Simulation Center allows students to participate in simulated experiences from a hospital setting, outpatient clinic, and/or home health environment. A bond-funded package secured by the RHEC from the General Assembly underwrote a project, which included a 1,800-square-foot expansion and renovation of 2,800-square feet of the existing Clinical Simulation Center that was completed in 2017.

WHEREAS, the Roanoke Higher Education Authority (the “Transferor/Seller”) has acquired certain personal property (the “Property”) with funds provided to the Transferor/Seller by Virginia College Building Authority (“VCBA”) pursuant to a Facilities Agreement (21st Century College Project) dated as of August 1, 2011 (as amended by amendments dated as of December 1, 2012, April 1, 2015 and June 1, 2016, the “Facilities Agreement”) between the Transferor/Seller and VCBA;

WHEREAS, the Transferor/Seller anticipates that portions of the Property will be transferred/sold to entities that lease space in the Transferor/Seller’s facilities (each, a “Transferee/Buyer”), including without limitation Radford University, in order that the Transferor/Seller might avoid the cost of maintaining such portion or for other reasons; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Visitors of the Transferee/Buyer desires to accept such transfers/sales of the Property;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED,

1. The officers of the Transferee/Buyer (the “Officers”), including its President and its Vice President for Finance and Administration and Chief Financial Officer, are hereby authorized to effect transfers/sales to Transferee/Buyer of such portions of the Property, and upon such terms and conditions, as any of the Officers shall deem appropriate. Any of the Officers may execute such documents (which may include agreements of transfer/sale, bills of transfer/sale and other documents), and take such further action, as he may deem necessary or desirable in order to effect any such transfer/sale.

2. The Officers are hereby authorized and directed to take such actions as may be necessary to cause such transfers/sales of Property to comply with the terms of the Facilities Agreement.
3. This resolution shall be effective upon its adoption. The foregoing resolution was duly adopted by the Board of Visitors of Radford University at a meeting duly called and held on May 10, 2019.

Re: Recommendation for Academic Values Underlying General Education

During Summer 2018, fourteen Teaching and Research faculty from across campus and Roanoke locations and eight non-voting advisory members of the academic and student community came together to identify the academic values underlying general education. In the beginning, the team defined academic values.

“Academic values inspire and guide Radford University student experiences in general education.”
The next stage of the team’s work focused on reviewing potential academic values from many sources. In addition to examining academic institutions, these individuals sought information from many other arenas and now seek input from the campus and broader Radford community.

To that end, the Radford University Academic Values Exploration Team recommends the following academic values for general education:

Exploration: Going beyond one’s limits to experience diverse subjects and disciplines for innovative learning and opportunities for self-discovery.

Tagline: “Forge your own path.”

Evaluation: The ability to discern and use reasoning, critical thinking, and evidence-based research to make informed decisions.

Tagline: “Transform information into insight.”

Engagement: Integrating knowledge, methods, and experiences to establish connections across concepts, disciplines, and communities.

Tagline: “Become more than the sum of our parts.”

Re: Recommendation of Guiding Principles for General Education

Over the past month, a team of twelve faculty representing each academic college have worked to identify guiding principles that will help develop a new model of general education at Radford University. These principles were circulated and input was received from the campus community. The team recommends the following principles:

1. The general education program is student centered. Therefore, the general education program:
   a. is easy to understand, explain, and navigate;
   b. allows student choice;
   c. encourages timely graduation;
   d. accommodates the needs of students (freshman, transfer, non-traditional, first-generation, veterans, international, etc.).

2. The general education program promotes strong foundations for student learning and success on campus and beyond. Therefore, the general education program:
   a. provides opportunities to develop abilities and gain knowledge useful within and across disciplines;
   b. exposes students to diversity of perspective and depth of knowledge through coursework outside their discipline;
   c. encourages engagement with and guidance by full-time faculty;
   d. ensures reliable and valid assessment of learning goals and outcomes.

3. The general education program reflects the identity and responsibilities of Radford University. Therefore, the general education program:
   a. embodies the Academic Values, Vision, Mission, and Core Values of Radford University;
   b. aligns with regional, state, University, college, and department accreditation requirements;
   c. invites all Radford University colleges to contribute to General Education;
   d. adapts to internal and external factors (transfer issues, legislative changes, accreditation-University, department, SACSCOC, and SCHEV, etc.).
The REAL Education Model

SUMMARY

Two areas of foundational competency are required for success in degree programs:

- Foundational writing focused on composition and mechanics (can cross credit with degree program but not E area fulfillment)
- Foundational math focused on numerical literacy (can cross credit with degree program but not R area fulfillment)

Students choose degree programs (majors and minors) to fulfill four areas of knowledge and complete general education:

The REAL Areas

Scientific and Quantitative REASONING: Major or minor includes courses in math, natural science, and/or other related areas. Degree programs fulfilling this area incorporate the tools of mathematics and quantitative reasoning and the methodologies of scientific inquiry.

Humanistic or Artistic EXPRESSION: Major or minor includes courses in humanities, fine arts, and other related areas. Degree programs fulfilling this area integrate methods/techniques and areas of inquiry that explore and describe the human experience.

Cultural or Behavioral ANALYSIS: Major or minor includes courses in social science, behavioral science, and other related areas. Degree programs fulfilling this area examine individual, social, or cultural factors that influence human behavior and shape reciprocal relationships between people and society.

Applied LEARNING: Major or minor includes courses incorporating skills immediately applicable to the workplace; a focus on how academic subjects apply to real-world problems and opportunities; and applied courses focus on practice (doing—knowledge in action) within a profession.

Students must complete two writing intensive courses, at least one at the 300 level or higher. These may be completed within or outside of student degree programs.

Students must fulfill a personal and professional development area with activities, engagements, and/or coursework.

Program requirements:

Any degree program that fulfills a REAL area must include at least 9 unique credit hours, with at least 3 credit hours at the 300 level or above for the area covered.

All minors that fulfill REAL areas must be a minimum of 15 credit hours.

REAL area general studies minors allow students to fulfill areas with more diverse collections of courses or to change their minds about minors or majors.
INTRODUCTION

The proposed general education builds on the idea that students can pursue their goals and engage in exploration and learning in many ways and in all departments. This proposal acknowledges the academic strengths of disciplines and privileges no discipline in the pursuit of knowledge. The program proposed in this document recognizes that degree programs build competencies in the areas students need for lifelong learning and success and allows students to cross credit those competencies with general education areas. With this in mind, the team has proposed a model that incorporates general education seamlessly into the entirety of their career at Radford University: The REAL Model. In this model, students meet area requirements through majors and minors. Additional foundational requirements are added to promote academic success.

Traditionally, students take individual courses from isolated course groups that reflect the fundamental learning areas at the beginning of their academic experience. It is the belief of the General Education Principles and Models Team that a more enriching and engaging experience can be achieved when general education requirements are incorporated into and fulfilled by programs of study (plans of majors and minors), not segregated into single courses. Degree programs allow for more significant depth of study and greater contact with departments and faculty. Existing degree programs at Radford University thoroughly cover one or more of the fundamental learning areas, and therefore we can capitalize on the knowledge gained in the student's major(s) and minor(s) to demonstrate their understanding of foundational principles.

LEARNING AREAS AND COMPETENCIES

We have identified four fundamental learning areas that all students should engage prior to graduation from Radford University: scientific and quantitative REASONING, humanistic or artistic EXPRESSION, cultural or behavioral ANALYSIS, and applied LEARNING. Within the proposed model, students pursue a program of study (combinations of majors/minors) which simultaneously cover these REAL areas to complete general education. All degree programs that claim to cover a REAL area must agree to fulfill the assessment plan for that area. Students also complete additional foundational requirements to help ensure academic success within majors and minors.

Proposed Competencies
The General Education Principles and Models Team proposes the following competencies in accordance with the State Council of Higher Education (SCHEV) requirements:

- Written communication (required of all degree programs under the Strategic Plan)
- Critical thinking (required of all degree programs under the Strategic Plan)
- Quantitative reasoning (required of all degree programs counting in the Reasoning area)
- Scientific reasoning (required of all degree programs counting in the Reasoning area)
- Oral communication (required of all degree programs under the Strategic Plan)

Civic engagement is a required SCHEV competency but is not included as part of general education for Radford University. A task force is developing an assessment plan for civic engagement that includes a broad definition with curricular and co-curricular fulfillment options.

THE REAL MODEL REQUIREMENTS

The requirements for this model are as follows:
1. Students demonstrate competency in foundational writing and mathematics. Students complete:

   - ONE foundational writing course taught by the Department of English that includes development of composition and mechanics. Students may use competency assessment, transfer, dual enrollment, or advance placement to complete this requirement (equivalent to ENGL 111 or others deemed appropriate by the Department of English). This course cannot count towards fulfilling the REAL areas.

   - ONE foundational mathematics course taught by the Department of Mathematics and Statistics that includes basic numeracy and quantitative literacy. Students may use competency assessment, transfer, dual enrollment, advance placement, or a standardized test score determined by Department of Mathematics and Statistics to complete this requirement (equivalent to MATH 114, 116, 119, or other courses deemed appropriate by the Department of Mathematics and Statistics). This course cannot count towards fulfilling the REAL areas.

2. Students select a program of study (combinations of majors/minors) in which all four REAL areas are covered. Breadth and depth are important for academic success. As such, students meet the general education requirements by cross-crediting courses with their major/minor programs. Students can complete the areas with traditional/existing majors and minors to develop depth of knowledge in the four REAL areas. To allow students to prioritize breadth over depth and make the model more flexible for students and departments, we introduce four new general minors (described below) supported by the Office of REAL Education, which is responsible for assessment of these.

3. To expand the effect of the program’s focus on depth and increase the success of students generally, the team has proposed two additional required areas. These areas can cross-credit with programs of studies (minors and majors).

   - TWO courses designated as writing intensive within their programs of study. At least one of these must be at the 300 level or higher. Writing style and formats will vary greatly. Requirements for the designation should reflect, and not limit, the variety of writing applications. Writing instruction must be integral to the course, as part of the course content and as a significant, recurring activity. Through instruction and disciplinary reading, students learn about writing, including structures and functions. The course description, goals, and outcomes must reflect the significant role that writing plays in the course. Departments/schools can review and propose which courses are writing intensive consistent with definitions, learning goals, and outcomes to be determined in the next phase. No departments are required to offer writing intensive courses, but any department can develop or use an existing course or courses to fulfill this requirement for degree-seeking students or others across campus. Courses must be designated with a (W) in the schedule of classes. Any courses taken for this requirement can cross-credit with majors and minors.

   - A personal and professional development and wellness requirement, encompassing multiple areas of competency. Students arrive to campus with existing diverse skills and competencies. This area is designed to be flexible, allowing students to build competencies that will best meet their needs and help prepare them for academic, professional, and personal success on campus and beyond. This requirement may be fulfilled through a range of activities, engagements, and/or three credits of coursework. This requirement may be fulfilled through major or minor requirements. Any courses taken for this requirement can cross-credit with majors and minors.
4. To ensure breadth of knowledge, each student must complete a program of study that includes 30 credit hours of 100-200 level courses approved for inclusion in the REAL education program. Upper-division courses will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis for inclusion in the REAL areas. Courses transferred in from the Virginia Community College System (VCCS) may be applied to the 30 credit hour minimum.

5. The number of REAL areas required for those with approved transfer credits may be reduced as long as at least one course for each of the four REAL areas is present in the degree program of study. Students with 60 or more approved transfer credits would need to cover at least one REAL area. Students must have at least one course in any area covered or reduced by approved transfer credit. Coverage of the REAL areas will be determined in consultation with departments and college advising centers.

SUPPORTING THE REAL MODEL

The following conditions support the implementation of the REAL Model at Radford University.

REAL Area Coverage Requirements

To cover a REAL area, a major or minor must agree to:

- Require at least 9 credit hours of coursework, of which 3 or more credits must be at the 300 level or above, within the area(s) fulfilled.

- Adhere to and assess learning goals and outcomes for the REAL area(s) covered.

The following conditions must also be met:

- Minors must include a minimum of 15 total credit hours, containing at least 9 credit hours, with 3 credit hours at the 300 level or higher, of coursework that document each REAL area intended to fulfill.

- A single major degree program may fulfill no more than three REAL areas for any one student, unless all four REAL areas are fulfilled by accreditation or licensure requirements. A single minor degree program may fulfill no more than two REAL areas.

- No degree program can cover more than two REAL areas using a single prefix.

- Each major and minor must agree to provide clear communication to their degree-seeking students about which areas still require degree programs to satisfy.

- In a student’s program of study, courses from degree programs cannot count simultaneously in multiple REAL areas.

The REAL Studies Minors

To accommodate transfer students, students who change majors, students who are uncertain about their program of study, and students who wish for less depth and more breadth in their program of study, the General Education Principles and Models team recommends the development of four new general studies minors. Each of these general studies minors covers one of the REAL areas:
Minor in Scientific and Quantitative Reasoning. Any 15 or more credits in math, natural science, and/or other related areas, with at least 3 credits at the 300-400 level. This minor requires at least one course that includes the tools of mathematics and quantitative reasoning and another course that includes the use of methodologies of scientific inquiry. Coursework must include classes with at least two different prefixes.

Minor in Humanistic and Artistic Expression. Any 15 or more credits in humanities, fine arts, and/or other related areas, with at least 3 credits at the 300-400 level. Coursework must include classes with at least two different prefixes.

Minor in Cultural and Behavioral Analysis. Any 15 or more credits in social science, behavioral science, and/or other related areas; with at least 3 credits at the 300-400 level. Coursework must include classes with at least two different prefixes.

Minor in Applied Learning. Any 15 or more credits in courses incorporating skills immediately applicable to the workplace; a focus on how academic subjects apply to real world problems and opportunities; and applied courses focus on practice (doing—knowledge in action) within a profession. At least 3 credit hours must be completed at the 300-400 level. Coursework must include classes with at least two different prefixes.

Note the following about the general studies minors:

- Students cannot double count courses to simultaneously complete both traditional minors and one of the general studies minors. (e.g.: a student cannot automatically receive the Minor in Scientific and Quantitative Reasoning by completing the Minor in Chemistry; the student will need to apply different courses if they wish to receive the Minor in Scientific and Quantitative Reasoning.)

- Students will need to select courses for these minors. Departments will be invited to review and identify appropriate courses and code each with a “R”, “E”, “A”, and/or “L” for inclusion in the course catalog for this purpose.

- Assessment for the general minors will be done by the administrator of the REAL Education program.

PROGRAM NOTES

Degree Program Review for REAL Area Coverage

Departments will be asked to review their major/minor degree programs and identify which REAL area or areas they intend to cover (according to REAL Area Coverage Requirements above and based on the to-be-determined learning goals and outcomes), so that each degree program can be coded with a “R”, “E”, “A”, and/or “L”. Departments will also be asked to review individual courses and code them similarly for students interested in degree areas and/or those who might seek the general studies minors.

No department or school is required to submit degree programs or courses for REAL area fulfillment.

All courses fulfilling a REAL area within a degree program of study are NOT required to be taught by the department/school. However, departments/schools are expected to communicate with other departments about reliance on and inclusion of courses in their degree program plans of study.
Alignment

To claim coverage over one or more REAL area, the department/school completes an alignment proposal. In this proposal, the department/school agrees to document the courses they use for that area, meet the REAL Area Coverage Requirements noted above. Programs must also work with the Office of Institutional Effectiveness and Quality Improvement to describe particulars on how program level assessment of the learning goals and outcomes for degree seeking students is fulfilled. Departments or schools who rely on courses from other departments/school will include formal agreements with these in the proposal for alignment with the REAL program.

This alignment proposal will be reviewed by department and college curriculum committees, and it will move through any other IG processes determined to be required by Faculty Senate.

18-19.15—Motion for the creation of the REAL Curriculum Planning Committee (RCPC)

Referred by: Faculty Senate Executive Council

MOTION:

In light of the proposed model of general education, the Faculty Senate recommends the establishment of the Radford University REAL Curriculum Planning Committee (RCPC). This committee is charged with the responsibilities of developing a curriculum plan for the new general education model for Radford University.

To ensure diversity and equity of representation of many faculty perspectives and that all faculty have access to provide input into that process while still remaining small enough to make nimble and effective progress, voting members of the team will be 2 full time Teaching and Research faculty representatives nominated and elected from different departments within each college (CHBS, Artis, Davis, CVPA, CEHD, and Waldron). Although voting members are elected at the college level, their mission will be to represent views from across the Radford University community. One additional non-voting member, the Interim Director of the Core Curriculum, will be appointed as facilitator of the team. It is expected that this team will need to meet weekly to ensure adequate progress towards completion of the charges within the timeline specified.

The team charges are to:

1) Review the accreditation expectations related to general education from SACSCOC and SCHEV in consultation with the Office of Institutional Effectiveness and Quality Improvement.

2) Define learning goals and outcomes for the four REAL areas for the proposed REAL model. These learning goals and outcomes should remain consistent with the academic values and guiding principles voted on by Faculty Senate in the Fall 2018.

3) Develop learning outcomes competencies and an assessment plan for the personal and professional development requirement outlined in the REAL model proposal.

4) Identify a definition of ‘writing intensive’ and an implementation plan for writing intensive coursework under the REAL model.

5) Communicate with the REAL Model Implementation Steering Committee.

6) Drafts of all team recommendations will be circulated monthly to ensure the campus community is informed as this work evolves.

7) Final Draft recommendations will be circulated via public forums for input and discussion.

8) Initial recommendations for the curriculum plan will be submitted for review and approval by the Faculty Senate no later than with a target date of September 12, 2019.

RATIONALE:

With approval of the REAL model by Faculty Senate, Radford University faculty must now move to develop a curriculum plan for this innovative approach to general education. In doing so, the faculty

MOTION:

In light of the proposed model of general education, the Faculty Senate recommends the establishment of the Radford University REAL Model Implementation Steering Committee. Due to the substantial innovation in the proposed model of general education, this team will be populated with individuals from across campus, as well as, six Teaching and Research faculty, one representative from each college. Each faculty representative will be nominated and elected by faculty within their college (CHBS, Artis, Davis, CVPA, CEHD, and Waldron). Additional members of the team will include:

K. Two Faculty Senators elected by the Faculty Senate
L. Executive Director for the Center for Career and Talent Development
M. Interim Director of Core Curriculum
N. A representative from the Office of Institutional Effectiveness and Quality Improvement

It is anticipated that this team will need to meet weekly over the summer and throughout the academic year to ensure adequate progress towards completion of the charges within the timeline specified. The committee charges are to:

1) Identify the necessary tasks and challenges for implementation of the REAL model of general education.
2) Gather input from campus constituencies by developing subcommittees in areas to be determined by the committee. These subcommittees will identify recommendations for implementation to bring forward to the Steering Committee.
3) Create an implementation plan for overcoming challenges of the REAL model. Upon approval by the Steering Committee, recommendations will be submitted for consideration by Faculty Senate.
4) Submit an initial report, including proposed timeline for implementation of the REAL model, no later than September 12, 2019. The timeline for implementation will be subject to approval by Faculty Senate.

5) Maintain ongoing communication with the campus community via distribution of monthly reports related to REAL implementation planning.

State Relations Update
May 10, 2019

The 2019 General Assembly convened on Wednesday, January 9 and adjourned on Sunday, February 24.

From a legislative perspective, the vast majority of problematic legislation for higher education was defeated or favorably amended. We continue to see a large number of higher education legislation in the areas of college access, affordability, and accountability.

Legislation that was introduced, but defeated, included bills relating to campus sexual violence policies and student disciplinary hearings, criminal history questions on admissions applications, and institutional donations. It is likely that we will see legislation on these topics during the 2020 session.

In addition, the budget included language with several higher education directives which may influence higher education funding in the next biennium.

- Financial Aid Review. The budget directs SCHEV to lead a review of financial aid funding models and awarding practices. The scope of the review will center on the VSFAP funding model and use of tuition and fee revenue used for aid, but will expand as needed.

- Statewide Higher Education Funding Plan. The budget directs SCHEV to develop a statewide higher education finance plan that incorporates the priorities of the Joint Subcommittee on the Future Competitiveness of Virginia Higher Education.

Key legislation that passed the General Assembly and was signed by the Governor includes the following topics.

- BOV. Legislation passed which mandates a two year waiting period for former BOV members to be employed at the institution. In addition, legislation passed which requires education programs for BOVs to include presentations relating to student debt trends.

- Tuition and Fee Increases. Institutions will now be required to permit public comment on proposed increases in undergraduate tuition and mandatory fees at a BOV meeting. The bill requires the BOV to establish policies for public comment, which may include reasonable time limitations, and to provide an explanation of any deviation from the projected range of the planned increase previously provided to students and the public.

- Release of Student Information. As a follow-up to last year’s student directory information legislation, a clean-up bill passed which allows for institutions to disclose certain directory information of students to internal university stakeholders for educational purposes or internal business, if the student has not opted out of the disclosure. This may require updating existing policies and procedures that were developed last year as a result of HB 1.

- Financial Aid Award Letters. Any comprehensive financial aid award notification provided to a student by an institution must meet the requirements and best practices established by SCHEV in its Financial Aid Award Letters Policies and Guidance.

- Institution Innovation. Legislation passed which permits public institutions to participate in a limited performance pilot program. The legislation also establishes the Innovative Internship Fund to be used to fund the Innovative Internship Program, which currently exists and is administered by SCHEV. The budget includes $700,000 and the funding is to expand internship or other work-based learning opportunities to facilitate the readiness of students, employers, and institutions.

- Rural Information Technology Apprenticeship Grant Fund and Program. The Rural Information Technology Apprenticeship Grant Fund and Program will be administered by the Southwest Virginia Higher Education Center, in collaboration with regional two and four year institutions, including Radford. The purpose is to award grants to small, rural information technology businesses in Southwest and Southside Virginia to establish apprenticeship programs that combine mentorship and on-the-job training.

2020 General Assembly

Looking ahead, President Hemphill and the administration are in the process of developing the University’s 2020 State Priorities. As in previous years, President Hemphill and I will be traveling to each region over the summer and fall meeting with members of the General Assembly and other state officials to update them on University initiatives and key priorities.

All 100 House seats and 40 Senate seats are up for reelection this year and the landscape for the 2020 General Assembly will be dramatically different. Currently, Republicans control the House (51-49) and the Senate (21-19). With a razor thin margin, there is a strong possibility that control of the House and/or the Senate could flip parties – about half of the House and Senate seats are contested, and redistricting could also determine the balance of power. The most profound impact of the House and/or Senate flipping parties will be new committee leadership and widespread changes to committee membership.

Regardless of which party controls the House and Senate, there will be many new faces in the General Assembly due to retirements, election losses, or House members choosing to forego their House seat to run for the Senate. Currently, we know that there will be at least six new members of the House Appropriations Committee, six new members of the House Education Committee, two new members of the Senate Finance Committee, and two new members of the Senate Education & Health Committee.

The following General Assembly members have announced their retirements:
- Delegate Steve Landes
- Delegate Dickie Bell
- Delegate Gordon Helsel
- Delegate David Toscano
- Delegate Brenda Pogge
- Delegate Riley Ingram
- Delegate Scott Garrett
- Delegate Matthew James
- Senator Bill Carrico
- Senator Dick Black
- Senator Frank Wagner

The following General Assembly members chose to forego their House seat and run for the Senate:
- Delegate Debra Rodman (against Senator Dunnavant)
- Delegate Cheryl Turpin (Senator Wagner’s open seat)
- Delegate Todd Pillion (Senator Carrico’s open seat)
- Delegate John Bell (Senator Black’s open seat)

On May 23, 2019, Radford University President Brian O. Hemphill, Ph.D., announced the establishment of the Jefferson Circle as part of the Radford University Alumni Association. The Jefferson Circle functions as an alumni chapter of Radford University and honors the experience of those who graduated from and/or attended Jefferson College of Health Sciences (JCHS). It also celebrates the legacy of JCHS and the uniqueness of the Radford University Carilion (RUC) experience, while simultaneously recognizing these individuals as part of the Radford University family and acknowledging the important work occurring at RUC. The Jefferson Circle is a symbol of the strength of the historical foundation of JCHS from which RUC has been built, while also looking to an innovative future driven by meeting healthcare workforce needs across the Commonwealth of Virginia and beyond.

SACSCOC Required Annual Board Self-Evaluation
4.2.g The governing board defines and regularly evaluates its responsibilities and expectations. (Board self-evaluation)

Rationale and Notes

As the body that holds in trust the fundamental autonomy and ultimate well-being of the institution, the governing board of the institution is a critical element in the success of the institution. Good institutional governance requires that the board systematically asks itself, “How are we doing? What are we doing? Are we as effective as a board as we can be?” The process of institutional improvement underlies the Principles of Accreditation. While the means by which a governing board participates in that process may be different in scope, tone, and detail than that of the rest of the institution, it is still a necessary element in institutional leadership.

A good starting place is a self-reflective examination of the issues that underlie the governance standards of the Principles of Accreditation and the “Questions to Consider” in this section of this Resource Manual. How this is done is something best determined by a governing board itself. Some institutions use a board retreat format. Some boards build self-reflection into an annual orientation/reorientation of the board. Some boards facilitate this process by using external resources such as a facilitator or a book, although that is not a requirement of this standard. What is expected of this standard is something more substantive than a statement that “the board conducted a self-evaluation.”

NOTE

If the institution has multiple governing boards [see Standard 4.3 (Multi-level governance)], then the institution should address the self-evaluation process for all relevant boards.
Questions to Consider

- What are the legal obligations of board members? Does each member of the board understand these expectations?
- Do bylaws and other written documents for board procedures make clear the role of and limits of board actions?
- Do bylaws and other written documents for board distinguish the roles between the board (policy-making) and the CEO (administrative)?
- Is the board structure working well? Are committee responsibilities well defined?
- Is the orientation of new board members effective?
- How does the board stay informed as to the financial health of the institution?
- How does the board maintain its focus on the institutional mission?
- Is review of the mission statement a regular expectation of the governing board?
- What is the relationship between the institution’s chief executive officer and the institution’s governing board?
- What protections are built into the board structure to ensure the board is not subject to undue influence by a minority of members or by external forces?
- Are board minutes clear and accurate? Do they provide sufficient detail to capture the results of deliberations?
- Do board procedures regarding protection from internal conflicts of interest work appropriately?
- Does the board have a functioning self-evaluation process?
- Are procedures for CEO succession clear?
- If the governing board interacts with other boards (e.g., system boards, foundation boards, alumni boards), are duties and expectations clear?

Sample Documentation

- Statements of board responsibilities and expectations.
- Schedule used by the board for self-review.
- Board policies and procedures regarding board self-evaluation.
- Board minutes or reports detailing the findings of board self-evaluation.
- Materials used as part of the self-examination process (e.g., excerpts from board books, retreat handouts, summaries).
