Report to BOV Critical Issue:
Low Faculty Morale

- The COACHE survey, along with the Faculty Morale Surveys conducted by the Faculty Senate, clearly demonstrates faculty morale is unacceptably low. Dr. Jacobsen highlighted three major causes:
  - Faculty staffing / Workload balance
  - Faculty compensation
  - Senior leadership (not addressed in this presentation, previously addressed by Dr. Jacobsen)
The Ask

- Adopt the motions proposed by the Faculty Senate as the University’s compensation and staffing strategic goals (Base Budget Model for staffing and 60th percentile of FSEC model for compensation)

- Make faculty staffing and compensation the top budget priorities until the strategic goals are met
Why Should RU Adopt the Proposed Solutions?

- The University’s image and competitive position is a direct function of how well it provides transformational experiences that helps students achieve success in life.
- You can’t produce happy customers with unhappy employees.
- The University is poised for success. In order to be successful we need good facilities, good student services, good technology, and, above all, the ability to recruit, retain, and motivate competent, innovative faculty.
- We have made great progress on the first three, now it’s time to work on the faculty factor.
Results

- The BOV expressed a consensus of the Board that addressing faculty workload and faculty compensation are top priorities.

- The BOV charged myself, Dr. Minner, and Mr. Alvarez with coming up with a specific proposal for Board action by May.
