Active Learning and Active Doing

Radford University offers an education that encourages active participation, challenges students from the outset and provides early access to industry-aligned opportunities. As early as their freshman year, students get hands-on experience, conduct research and run simulations that go beyond what many internships or co-ops even offer. We bring the real world to our students on campus. Regardless of their major, every student at Radford University can engage in career-driven experiences that connect them meaningfully to their future profession.

Ready for All of Life's Roles

At Radford University, we believe in the power of personal growth and professional exploration. We guide our students to bright futures in rewarding careers by helping them develop the hard and soft skills required for success in the workplace and in life. Our students undergo transformative growth as they prepare for life after college, not only as professionals in their field but also as active citizens who are eager to make a difference in their communities and proud alumni who cheer on and support the next generation of Radford students. At Radford University, we empower our students to make a positive impact in all the roles they will play throughout their lives.

The Associated Press (AP) Stylebook is the standard style guide for most U.S. newspapers, magazines and public relations firms. Academic Degrees
• Use an apostrophe in bachelor’s degree, a master’s, etc.
• There is no apostrophe in Bachelor of Arts, Master of Science, etc.

Dates
• When a month is used with a specific date, abbreviate these months: Jan., Feb., Aug., Sept., Oct., Nov. and Dec. Sept. 4 was the day of her birthday.
• When a phrase lists only a month and year, do not separate the month and the year with commas. March 2022 was a great month.
• When a phrase refers to a month, day and year, set off the year with commas. Aug. 20, 2023, was the day they had all been waiting for.

Academic Titles
Doctor/Dr. is used only for holders of degrees in dentistry, medicine, optometry, osteopathic medicine, podiatry or veterinary medicine.
Other doctorates are denoted when necessary by the placement of the degree, in abbreviated form, after the name: Amy Balija, Ph.D.; Susan Trageser, Ed.D.

Numbers
Spell out the numbers one through nine; for 10 and up, use Arabic numerals.

Proper names: Use words or numerals according to an organization’s practice. 3M, Twentieth Century Fund, Big Ten

Titles
Of books, computer games, movies, operas, plays, poems, songs, television programs, lectures, speeches and works of art: Use quotation marks, not Italics. “Barbie,” “Oppenheimer,” “Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire.”

Dashes: Make a dash by striking the hyphen key twice. Put a space on either side of the dash: Smith offered a plan — it was unprecedented — to raise revenues.

Hyphens: Use a hyphen for compound adjectives before the noun. Well-known actor, full-time job, 20-year sentence. Do not use a hyphen when the compound modifier occurs after the verb. The actor was well known. Her job became full time. He was sentenced to 20 years.
University Logo
University Logo: Main Version

The Radford University logo helps define the Radford University brand by telling the Radford story in a condensed, simplified and visual form. Using the iconic Radford red as the defining color, the logo features a strong, traditional “R” in a grouping with the year of Radford’s founding, 1910, to illustrate the long and proud history of the institution. Below it sits a simple depiction of the Blue Ridge Mountains, a nod to Radford’s picturesque location. And in the mountains is a wayfinding symbol that shows the adventurous spirit of Radford’s students.
University Logo: Main Reversed

The reversed logo, for use on dark, solid backgrounds, uses the same elements as the main logo but with the name “Radford” in white instead of red, “University” in a lighter gray and a white key line around the shield icon to separate it from the background.
University Logo: Camo One-Color Versions

For instances where using multiple colors isn't possible, such as when placed over a photographic background, camo one-color versions of the logo are available to maintain the brand integrity. The camo one-color logo is the brand's primary one-color option.

These versions contain transparent elements and should not be reproduced on merchandise such as t-shirts.
University Logo: Print One-Color Versions

For instances where using multiple colors isn't possible due to printing restrictions or when using multiple colors could be visually confusing, simple one-color print versions of the logo are available to maintain the brand integrity.

These versions are for print use only when only one color of print is allowed.
University Logo: Clear Space

When using the Radford University logo, it is imperative to have sufficient clear space on all sides of the logo to maintain visual integrity. The diagrams to the left show the space needed for both the horizontal and vertical versions of the mark, as measured by the size of the capital “R” in Radford.
University Logo:
Small Size +
Minimum Size

Print
To preserve the integrity of the design and the legibility of the logo text, the logo should never be reproduced smaller than 1 13/16" wide for the horizontal or 1 1/4" wide for the stacked version in print.

Digital
For digital executions, the horizontal logo can be as small as 72 pts wide and the stacked logo can be as small as 50 pts wide at 72 ppi.

Small Scale
In some cases, such as screen printing and embroidery, we recommend using the small size versions of the Radford logo, which have been optimized for small-scale reproduction. All other process printed or digital placements of the logo should use the standard size versions.
University Logo: Usage Rules

Do not use the regular logo on a dark background.

Do not change the color of any portion of the logo.

Do not place the main logo on a photographic background.

Proper use of the white, one-color logo on photographic or video background.

Use of either the Shield or Wordmark alone is to the discretion of Strategic Communications.

Do not stretch or squish.

Do not rotate the logo.

Do not add effects that modify the logo.

To the left are examples for improper uses of the University logo, as well as correct clarifications on proper use.
Flexible Logo System
The Radford logo can be used as a containing shape for photographic elements that customize the logo as part of its flexible system. Doing so must fall within the parameters set in these standards to maintain the stability of the brand identity, and all customized versions must be approved by the Office of Marketing and Communications.
Photographs used should meet the following criteria: background should be dark enough to keep the Radford R clearly visible, faces shouldn’t be covered by the R or cropped off, breakout element should remain within the designated breakout space, breakout element should be the focus of the chosen photograph and masked cleanly and gradient overlay color should be chosen to balance the colors in the photograph.
Flexible System: Variables & Structure

To the left are examples of how photos cannot be used in the Radford University Flexible Logo System. By avoiding these instances, the system remains strong and recognizable in all uses. You can reference the examples used on the following pages to see the system rules properly applied.

- Do not cover the subject’s face.
- Do not use a photo without a breakout element.
- Do not use a photo that violates the designated maximum breakout space.
- Do not use a photo with too much white, making the “R” illegible.
- Do not remove the gradient fade from the logo.
- Do not use an unapproved color for the gradient overlay.
Flexible System: Variables & Structure

Designated clear space around the logo should expand to begin at the furthest edge of the breakout element, ensuring proper breathing room for the logo regardless of the version used.
Flexible System:
Usage Rules

See the examples to the left for ways the flexible logo versions should not be used as well as an example of how to use the logo on a black background.

Do not use other colors in the wordmark.

Do not rotate the logo.

Do not place on a photographic background.

Do not stretch or squash the logo.

Do not add effects that modify the logo.

Proper use of reverse flexible logo on a black background.

Color Tints

For the flexibility of the system, some brand colors have designated tints that can be used when necessary in brand collateral.
Suggested Color Combinations

The brand colors can be mixed in a variety of ways, but should always focus on one of the three dominant primary colors and always feature Radford Red as part of mix. Below are a few suggestions for how the colors can be mixed and used.
Color Gradients

Gradients are a subtle way to add depth using the Radford University brand colors. These are the four approved gradients.
Graphic Elements
Graphic Elements: R + 1910

The Radford R and split 1910 from the logo can be pulled out and used as a standalone element when needed. They should always appear in black, white or a primary brand color.
Graphic Elements: Shield Shape

The shield shape from the logo can be used in a variety of ways as a brand accent. It can be filled, outlined, filled with brand photos, or used as a containing shape for text at full opacity. At low opacity or in colors that are tints of shades of each other, it can also be used as an oversized watermark in the background of a composition, always cropping to either the left or right edge.
The arrow or wayfinding shape from the logo can also be used as a branded accent shape. It can be filled in or outlined and used as points in a bulleted list or, with the same rules as the shield shape, it can also be used as a watermark in the background of a composition.
Another element that may be used is one of either of two representations of the local mountain skyline. These can fade from dark to light in either blue or red using Radford brand colors and should only be used contained within a shape or at the bottom boundary of a composition.

For simplicity in designs, we recommend zooming in a section of the skyline rather than including the full graphic in a composition.
Patterns: Radford Geometric

The geometric pattern plays into both the historic tartans and the exploration motif that are core to the University brand. It can be used in any of the three primary color areas.
Patterns: Radford Geometric

The pattern can also be contained in a horizontal or vertical bar. Some examples are shown to the left, but Radford materials are not limited to these specific options.
Patterns: Radford Plaid

Radford Plaid is a bridge between the traditional tartan and the clean, modern brand. It has the structure of a plaid, but each color variation works within one of the primary color areas for Radford, lending a level of subtlety to the overall look.
Patterns: Radford Plaid

The pattern can also be contained in a horizontal or vertical bar. Some examples are shown to the left, but Radford materials are not limited to these specific options.
The Modern Red MacFarlane Tartan is a historic piece of Radford University’s identity and is approved for use on official communications from the Office of the President.

The MacFarlane Tartan should be used on a 45° angle, and colors should never be altered or adjusted.

Patterns: Traditional Tartan
Video and Photography
Photography should be active and student-centric. When possible, featuring Radford red in the image is preferred. Natural light is also beneficial to convey a sense of realism.

Photography can be shown without treatment or given a color overlay.
Videos should mirror photography in style and can also be shown without additional treatment or with a color overlay.

When placing the logo over videography, it is important that the video remain dark enough behind the logo to maintain legibility or that a color overlay be used to support legibility.
