25-26.12 Motion Concerning “Higher Education’s Compact with America: Shared Principles for the Common Good,” A Joint Statement from the AAC&U and the Phi Beta Kappa Society

Referred by Faculty Issues.

The Faculty Senate supports the letter to President Danilowicz, as written by the Radford University Chapter of the American Association of University Professors, requesting he recommit to academic freedom and freedom of speech by signing the American Association of Colleges and Universities public statement, “Higher Education’s Compact with America: Shared Principles for the Common Good.”

Rationale:

On October 17, 2025, the American Association of Colleges & Universities (AAC&U) and the Phi Beta Kappa Society issued a joint statement entitled “Higher Education’s Compact with America: Shared Principles for the Common Good.” This statement identifies seven “enduring principles” of higher education—Opportunity, Affordability, Excellence, Freedom, Security, Partnership, and Prosperity—averring that inherent to these principles are “corresponding promises to students, communities, and the nation,” which in turn “form the basis of the compact between higher education and the nation that has served America so well for generations.” On October 30, 2025, the Radford University Chapter of the American Association of University Professors sent a letter to President Brett Danilowicz, urging him to endorse the AAC&U statement.

It is the position of the Faculty Senate that these stated principles and their consequent promises are consistent with the Mission and Core Values of Radford University, and we thus echo our colleagues’ request.
